PRICE FIVE CENTS

TO DANCE AT FESTIVAL.

Miss Helen Linnehan of South Weymouth, One of Galaxy of Wonderful Dancing Artists at Mrs. W. S. Butler's Annual May Festival in Mechanics Building, Boston Tomorrow.

Some few years ago, a dainty, graceful little miss made her debut as a dancer before a Weymouth audience. From the start the young lady enchanted her gatherings with her modest ways, exceptional ability and pleasing personality, until today at the age of 16, she is recognized as one of the highest talented young Terpsichorean artists in this section.

Tomorrow at Mrs. William S. Butler's annual May dancing festival in the Mechanics building, Boston, Miss Helen Linnehan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Linnehan of Pond street, South Weymouth will appear as one of the leading dancers of the program. Miss Linnehan will be seen in solo dancing and in numbers with other well known dancing favorites of this section.

During the past winter Miss Linnehan has faithfully followed her art and has danced at many social affairs, including a weekly party on Saturday afternoons at winter at W. A. & A. Bacon's store, Boston; the May Festival in Gloucester; at many affairs at the Copley Plaza; at the Hotel Somerset and numerous other society events in Boston and the surrounding section.

She started her dancing under the able direction of Mrs. Louise Merritt Polley of South Weymouth, following with a course directed by Miss Zella Hall of Boston and Providence, and the past four years she has been under the tutelage of Mrs. Lila Viles Wyman, the famous Boston dancing instructor.

Besides being an exceptional dancer, Miss Linnehan is a great favorite with all who come in contact with her. She attends the Weymouth high school and is a fine scholar and a model pupil. An exceptional future should be Miss Linnehan's reward for her hard work in preparing herself for the high point of perfection she has attained in her art.

Fraser—Fraser.

Miss Mary Fraser and Edward Fraser of East Braintree were married Tuesday evening at the church of the Sacred Heart by the pastor Rev. John B. Holland. Miss Emma Willett was bridesmaid and Charles R. Fraser best man. The bride wore a costume of white silk and the bridesmaid's dress was of cream crepe de chine.

A wedding dinner followed the ceremony at the home of the groom's cousin, John Fraser, Broad street Weymouth, which was followed by a reception at the new home of the couple an Allen street, East Braintree, that was attended by about one hundred friends of the couple, after which Mr. and Mrs. Fraser left on a short wedding trip.

Reed Cemetery Association.

The annual meeting of the Reed Cemetery Association was held at the Engine House, Nash's Corner, last Saturday evening.

Meeting called to order by the president, M. E. Hawes, and records of last meeting read by the clerk, C. A. Loud; also treasurer's report by the same party, both of which were accepted and adopted.

The meeting then proceeded to the choice of officers. Mr. Hawes who has held the office of president since the death of Quincy L. Reed, Esq., declined further service in that capacity, and Philip E. Monroe was elected president, Charles A. Loud, clerk and treasurer and Charles A. Loud and M. E. Hawes, directors for three years. A meeting of the directors followed and Nathaniel R. Ellis was appointed superintendent of the grounds.

At the annual meeting of the South Shore Co-operative bank Monday evening these officers were elected: president, Charles G. Sheppard; vice president, George E. Bicknell; secretary and treasurer, Chas. G. Jordan; directors, Patrick Casey, J. Henry Curran, Jacob Drexler, Thomas Fitzgerald, James H. Flint, W. Edward Gutterston, Charles A. Hayward, Wm. P. Kelley, W. W. MacCauley, J. E. Mulligan, William E. Pray, R. B. Worster, James R. Walsh, Chester E. Tenney and Charles F. Vaughan.

WITH THE FRATERNAL ORDERS.

News of The Lodges About Town.

I. O. O. F.

Wildely Lodge, I. O. O. F., observed the 97th anniversary of the introduction of Odd Fellowship in America, by a reception, banquet, dancing and musical entertainment in Odd Fellows Hall at South Weymouth last Friday night. The committee included A. T. Simpson, N. G.; Henry Kohler, Nathaniel Thomas, E. J. Pitcher and H. P. Smith.

K. of C.

Weymouth Council 729 received Holy Communion at St. Paul's church in Hingham last Sunday morning. Last night the second degree was conferred upon 14 candidates. The long looked for minstrel show, under the auspices of the lodge, will be held in Bates Opera House on Thursday evening, May 11th. Many features and specialties will be introduced.

A. O. H.

Division 9, A. O. H., observed its anniversary with a banquet and entertainment in Clapp's hall on Saturday evening. State and County officials were present as guests. An exemplification of the work of the order was given by the staff of Division 2 of Rockland. A social hour followed with music and speechmaking.

Alumni Celebration.

"Old Home Night," the second event of the kind, brought together nearly 500 graduates and former students of Burdett College last Friday evening.

The entertainment was arranged by the Alumni Association. It consisted of a reception, banquet, dancing and old fashioned games. Miss Alice H. Grady, president of the Alumni Association, was toastmistress. The principal speaker was Dr. William C. Crawford. Dennis McCarthy of the Sacred Heart Review recited one of his poems, "The Childer."

Following the banquet there was an exhibition of expert typewriting, stenography and rapid calculation. There was dancing afterward. This part of the program was in charge of William E. Soule, floor director.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: pres., Miss Alice Grady; 1st vice-pres., William E. Soule; 2nd vice-pres., Harold P. Johnson; 3rd vice-pres., Edwin K. Porter; 4th vice-pres., Miss Elizabeth Brassil; treas., H. Wadsworth Hight; asst. treas., A. U. Dickson; clerk, Fred B. Walker; rec. sec., R. Stickney and asst. sec., Miss M. L. Cole.

New Auto Combination Ordered.

Ex-District Chief Engineer Wallace Bicknell, Saturday placed the order with the White Motor company for a 45 horse power combination auto for Ward 3 at a price of $4500. The auto will be ready for delivery in about eight weeks.

CLEAN UP WEEK

Clean Up, Dig Up, Rake Up, Next Week and Make Weymouth a Spotless Town

Like the Weymouth Board of Trade, other town organizations and other towns around, we believe that the whole town of Weymouth will benefit physically, morally and financially by a good old fashioned spring cleaning of house and home, shop, store, factory, highway, byway and alley during next week, May 7 to May 13.

The Board of Selectmen and the Town Officers will do their share. You are invited to help in this effort for cleaner, better working and living conditions in this town. If every one does his or her part to make this campaign a success it will help to make Weymouth the most beautiful and most healthful place in New England.

Will you help to make Weymouth clean? What you should do: 1—Remove all rubbish from attic, cellar and yard. 2—Clean house inside and out and put all waste material in barrels, boxes, or bundles the night before the town teams make collections of waste material. 3—Ask the boys and girls to help by picking up papers in the streets and vacant lots. The town teams will remove rubbish and waste material except ashes and garbage, Thursday, May 11, 1916, from 7:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Sunday, Church day. Start the week right by attending church.

Monday, Fire Prevention day. Give special attention to clearing out rubbish from cellars, attics, passageways, etc., the idea being to get rid of any accumulation indoors that might cause fire.

Tuesday, Front Yard day. Clean up your lawn, trimming the edges, and grass, edging the sidewalk, etc.

Wednesday, Back Yard day. Clean rubbish, tin cans, etc., out.

Thursday, Carting Off day. All rubbish old cans, paper and waste materials, in boxes, barrels or bundles, put out the night before, will be removed by the town teams. This does not include garbage nor ashes.

Friday, Paint day. Paint your lawn swings, chairs, fences, etc.

Saturday, Public Institution day. Clean up and put in order the grounds and surroundings of churches, schools, fire stations, etc.

A first prize of a Snare Drum and a Second Prize of a Bugle will be given to the two groups of Boy Scouts that show the most interest in helping this Clean-Up Campaign.

CARMEN'S ANNUAL BALL.

Large Crowd Enjoys Festivities in Quincy Last Friday Night. Weymouth Well Represented.

With a reception, banquet and dance, the annual ball of the Quincy Division of the Street Car-men's Association which includes the East Weymouth railroad men, was held last Friday night in Music hall, Quincy. Dancing was enjoyed from 9 until 2, with a banquet at 12 o'clock. The reception and concert took place at 8 o'clock.

The committees in charge of the affair included:—Floor marshal, William L. Gould; director, Frank W. Sampson; assistant directors, H. A. Guy, R. Kaufman, George Jones; chief of aids, George C. Dunham; aids, M. Hawes, J. F. Sullivan, W. Anderson, H. Gould, J. F. Finnegan, D. Kearns, S. Marr, E. Dillon, J. Stratton, L. Ross, Roland Batson, W. Gomez, T. Curry, William Cowe, A. Tumbell, M. McLaughlin, R. J. McDonald, William Mullen, G. Smith, H. Moore, F. Locke, H. Meuni, T. McCluskey, R. Harris, T. O'Connell, J. E. Murphy, Charles Towne, D. Taylor, D. Stevens, William Abbott, E. Kingsley, G. Ford, J. Lynch, P. Kerr. Reception committee: James E. Flaherty, chairman, J. Brassill, H. Packard, C. Gill, J. F. O'Brien, E. Myatt, A. Blanchard, C. Burke, T. Ferguson, H. Johnson, James Ford, Geo. Walker, F. Russell, George Fay, J. Murphy, T. A. Boyle, James F. Kelley.

South Shore Commandery Knights Templars Attend Service at Second Universalist Church.

South Shore Commandery Knights Templars, on invitation of Rev. Fred A. Line, a Knight Templar himself and pastor of the Second Universalist church, South Weymouth, attended the morning service at that church last Sunday. The pastor gave an address on "Marching With Christ," and a vested choir, directed by Miss Annie Deane, repeated the Easter music.

MEETS IN RANDOLPH.

Norfolk Association of Congregational Churches in Session.

The 98th annual spring meeting of the Norfolk Association of Congregational churches was held Tuesday in Randolph. There were more than 150 delegates and pastors in attendance besides members of many churches. The following Weymouth churches were represented: Old South and Union of South Weymouth; Congregational of East Weymouth, Old North of Weymouth Heights, Union of Weymouth and East Braintree and Pilgrim of North Weymouth. An address on "Personal Stewardship" was given by Rev. Edward T. Ford of East Weymouth in the morning service. The prayer and benediction at the close of the services was given by Rev. John W. Lees of South Weymouth.

DEAD AT AGE OF 84.

Mrs. Abbie M. Clapp of North Weymouth Laid At Rest.

Mrs. Abbie M. Clapp, mother of Charles Clapp of Monatiquet street, North Weymouth, passed away Sunday afternoon at the age of 84. Since the death of her husband, twenty-five years ago, she has made her home with her son, the past thirteen of which have been spent in North Weymouth. Besides the son she leaves a sister three years older who lives in Portland, Ore. Funeral services were held on Tuesday at 2 p. m. Rev. Charles Clark officiated, and a ladies' quartette sang "Nearer My God, to Thee; Beautiful Isle Somewhere and Abide With Me." Burial was in the North Weymouth cemetery.

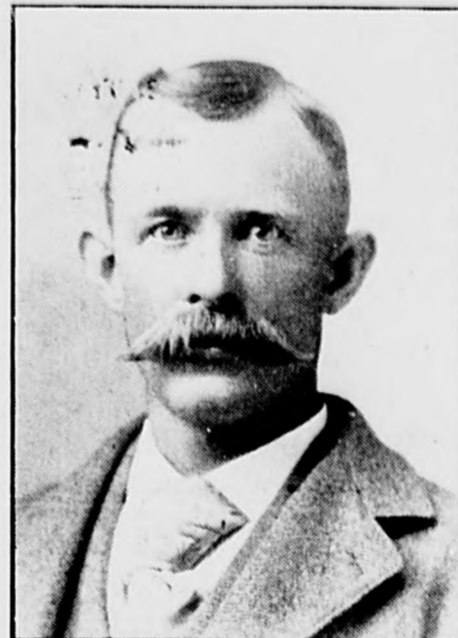

King Cove Boat Club Notes.

The auxiliary held a very largely attended meeting last Friday at the home of Mrs. Jacob Loud on Commercial street. After the work session was over a social time was enjoyed and musical numbers rendered.

This Saturday evening a supper and entertainment will be held in the club house.

WESTON H. CUSHING, DEAD.

A Prominent Citizen Taken in the Prime of Life.

WESTON H. CUSHING

Weston H. Cushing of 127 Middle street, East Weymouth, closed the week ending with April 22 in apparently good health, but on the evening of Sunday, the 23rd, was attacked with severe chills and symptoms of pneumonia. Medical aid was summoned and some relief obtained, but still the condition grew more alarming, calling for the services of a specialist and trained nurse.

During the week there were at times rays of hope and times of severe doubt with failure of heart action, and on Sunday, the 30th, the struggle ended and with but one day added to his 59th year, Weston H. had passed to the great beyond.

Mr. Cushing was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Cushing and was born in East Weymouth, April 29, 1858. The village that gave him birth has always been his home, and as boy and man his genial and social disposition has always linked him to a large circle of friends.

Early in life Mr. Cushing became associated with his late brother, John F. Cushing, in the coal, wood, hay and grain and ice business, and few concerns were more widely known than J. F. & W. H. Cushing of East Weymouth.

While not a seeker for public office or notoriety, Mr. Cushing took a deep interest in town and social affairs, was for many years an active and valued member of the fire department, was affiliated with Orphans Hope Lodge, A. F. & A. M., Royal Arch Chapter, Crescent Lodge I. O. O. F. and the Mass. Icemen's Association. Funeral services were held at the late home of Mr. Cushing Wednesday afternoon and were largely attended by friends, neighbors, business and fraternal associates of the deceased.

The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Edward T. Ford assisted by the Pilgrim Quartette of Boston who gave the following selections "Lead Kindly Light," "Hilltops" and "Christians Goodnight." Orphans Hope lodge A. F. & A. M., Crescent lodge I. O. O. F. and the Fireman's Association were in attendance and the Masonic burial ritual was rendered by W. M., Stanley T. Torrey and chaplain M. E. Hawes.

The burial was at Fairmount cemetery to which place the remains were escorted by Orphans Hope lodge and committal service performed. Benediction was pronounced by Dr. Ford and a valuable citizen was left to his final rest. The bearers were George F. Farrar, Everett Loud, Charles T. Humphrey, L. Henry Godin, Augustus Dennison and Albert Day.

Mr. Cushing is survived by his widow and daughter Mabel, who with her husband, Fred Brown and children are now in Georgia.

ENTERTAIN EMPLOYEES.

H. W. Dyer Host To South Weymouth Custom Laundry Workers.

H. Wilbur Dyer celebrated the 20th anniversary of the South Weymouth Custom laundry by tendering a banquet, entertainment and dance to his employees last Saturday night.

The hall was prettily decorated and all sat down to a sumptuous banquet prepared by Foss of Boston. At the conclusion of the banquet an entertainment was given by Mace Gay's orchestra and Charles Griley of Brookline, entertained. There were also violin and cornet solos.

The entertainment was followed by dancing which lasted until 12 o'clock.

During the evening Mr. Dyer was presented with a mammoth floral piece in the shape of a horse shoe and composed of carnation pinks and rosebuds by the employees.

A novel feature of the affair was the "shaker bonnet" favors with the menu upon them placed at each plate.

EAST WEYMOUTH CARNIVAL.

Up to the Third Story and Growing Fast.

The meeting on Monday evening of the management and those interested in the Big Carnival to be held in East Weymouth June 10th to the 17th, 1916 was attended by about 30 people.

Winslow M. Tirrell, chairman presided.

A T. Appleton reported an order placed for 500 pennants to advertise Carnival week. These pennants will be for sale in the local stores to any one desiring them.

A. L. Rousseau reported for the finance committee and the progress made showed that the contributions are being made very liberally and freely. The advertising program is being rushed along and anyone desiring to place an ad in it should see Mr. Rousseau at once.

The committee on the indoor display reported that action was being taken to obtain the Unitarian church for the display and they have no doubt but that it can be obtained. There are two floors available for booths and it will make an excellent place. This is one thing that should be settled upon at once as there are many local merchants anxious to get started on their booths, and requests have come in for space from Washburn Crosby, Gold Medal Flour, a Coffee concern, Automatic Flour, Needham Fire, Cream Crisp and others.

The sanitary conditions in Jackson Square were discussed at length and it is apparent that something must be done before Carnival Week to relieve the present conditions. M. E. Hawes, Fred L. Doucette and Henry E. Hanley were appointed a committee to investigate the matter and report at the next meeting.

A. L. Rousseau offered to give a high grade moving picture show, the proceeds to go to the Carnival Week Fund. The proposal met with approval and W. M. Tirrell and Mr. Rousseau were appointed a committee to bring in a definite plan at the next meeting. It is to be the understanding that the committee shall take the tickets and sell them.

Clarence Pratt reported progress on the amusements.

An offer was received from the Troop 2 Boy Scouts of America to assist in any way possible to make the Carnival a grand success.

The auto parade was discussed and much enthusiasm shown. It was voted to hold an automobile parade on the afternoon of June 17th and the further plans for the parade were laid over until next Monday night when the representatives of the different organizations in East Weymouth will be present and the matter of floats, etc., will be decided upon. Already requests to put floats in the parade have been received.

The matter of Band Concerts was brought up and while there will be concerts given, no definite action was taken except that we are to have as many concerts as money will allow.

It was voted to hold the Baby parade on the afternoon of June 11th, Flag Day and the School children's parade on the afternoon of June 16th.

The next meeting will be held on Monday evening May 8th in K. of C. hall, Jackson Square where there will be room enough to accommodate the meetings which are growing larger each week as the people awake to the fact that this is to be a Big Time. All interested are invited to attend and the meeting will be called to order at eight o'clock.

Mrs. Bridget (Dormer) Fogarty, Dead.

Mrs. Bridget (Dormer) Fogarty, widow of James Fogarty, and an old and respected resident of East Weymouth, passed away at her home 1110 Pleasant street, on Sunday, April 30.

Mrs. Fogarty had been a resident of this section of the town for fifty-six years, having come to East Weymouth from Fall River in 1860.

She was a woman of sterling Christian character, and her loss will be keenly felt by her sorrowing family.

The funeral took place from the Church of the Immaculate Conception Wednesday morning at nine o'clock with a high mass of requiem celebrated by Rev. C. J. Riordan.

The interment was in the family lot in St. Francis Xavier cemetery, the bearers being Thomas McEnroe, Michael Connell, Bartholomew Smith, Daniel Cronin, John Connell and Michael Reidy.

Travel Sketch.

BY BRADFORD HAWES.

No attempt is made in this building at an exhibition of the various industries and productions of the state. This is left to the county buildings, of which there are a number upon the grounds. The manner in which these county exhibits demonstrate the resources the state indicates that in regard to her agricultural and mineral products California need take the second place to no state in the Union. Seven other of the far western states besides California have buildings where are exhibited the choicest of their agricultural and industrial products, and where they each can demonstrate to you that their state is the best place in the world to live.

There are about thirty buildings, large and small, where are shown everything from Commerce to Fine Arts, and where one would gladly linger for hours and return the next day, but which time, space and lack of ability forbid me attempting to describe.

The prevailing style of architecture is of the Mission or Spanish order and one could almost, by some stretch of the imagination, fancy himself in a foreign land, were it not that in the ever changing through the language is always of the good old U. S. A. You meet men and women—especially women, who constitute about three-fourths of the tourists—who come from Massachusetts to California and from Minnesota to Texas, but all with the familiar tongue. Along in the middle of the afternoon, tiring of the indoor exhibits I strolled outside and on the model fruit ranch which lies to the northward of the buildings, and after an hour spent here I moved on toward the grounds where the tractor motors are demonstrated.

I came across a young man, who was also alone, and as we got into conversation he told me that he was from Topeka, Kansas. I told him I was from Weymouth, Massachusetts, upon which he replied, "Why, I am connected with a shoe concern which buys Clapp shoes from Weymouth?" to which I responded that they used as good shoes as were made in Weymouth. We were almost next door neighbors then, and as nothing was doing with the tractors we turned to the right and entered the upper end of the "Isthmus," that being the name by which the amusement concession district is known, and worked along down, visiting a few of the more attractive appearing places. One of these was a band of Hawaiian musicians, where for a half hour we listened to the sweetly weird music which they produced.

The sun was now setting and I bade farewell to my companion and continued down the "Isthmus" and out for the last time through the southern gate of the San Diego exposition, only regretting that my stay could not be prolonged.

In the morning I took a farewell stroll of an hour about the city and took a regretful leave on the train.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a running sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circular free. All Druggists. 75c.

Orders of British Knighthood.

The titles of the different orders of knighthood are all of a most high and mighty description. The Garter is "most noble," the Thistle "most ancient and most noble" and St. Patrick "most illustrious." The Knights of the Bath are officially "most honorable," the Star of India is "the most exalted," St. Michael and St. George is "the most distinguished," the Order of the Indian Empire is "the most eminent"—London Globe.

National Anthem.

By law there is no such thing as a "national anthem" in this country. Congress has never voted upon that subject. But by popular acceptance the "Star Spangled Banner" has become to all intents and purposes the national anthem. "America" is also very close to the hearts of all real Americans and may well be called the national hymn.—New York American.

Not the Right Brand.

"I must request the congregation to contribute generously this morning," said the Rev. Mr. Smallfree sadly. "My stipend is eight months in arrears, and my creditors are pressing. I, of course, work largely for love, and love, equally of course, is tender, but it isn't legal tender."—London Telegraph.

The Astor Fountain.

Baron Astor has made a name for himself in the world of art. One of the evidences of his cultured taste is the fountain at Cliveden, designed by Storey, in which seventy-five tons of pink marble were used in making the great shell.—London Standard.

MAKING FELT HATS

The Process From Raw Material to Finished Product.

MANY BRANDS OF FUR USED.

Ingenious Methods by Which the Pelts Are Cleaned and the Various Grades of Hair Are Mixed and Worked into the Required Shape.

One of the very interesting exhibits in the division of textiles of the National museum at Washington shows clearly just how such hats are made—from the fur to the finished product—and includes many of the latest and most popular styles ready to wear, as well as special shapes manufactured for particular foreign markets. The exhibit is accompanied with photographs illustrating scenes in the factory of one of the largest and best known American hat manufacturers. These enable the observer to connect the materials, apparatus and finished products shown into a tangible story.

In the manufacture of one of the most popular brands of American hats the fur of North American beaver, South American nutria, Saxony hare and English and Scotch cone are used. When the pelts of these animals are received at the factory they are first washed with whale oil soap, after which the long, coarse hairs are removed, since they would tend to make the felt too rough. The skins are then treated with nitrate of mercury, a process called "carruting," which gives the fur its "feeling properties," making it knit together when hot water and pressure are applied. The skins are then brushed by a machine which removes all the dust and other foreign substances.

The skin next goes to a cutting machine, where revolving shears strip away the fur, cutting it so close that it appears to have been shaved off. From this machine the fur is carried away on an endless belt or apron, on which it lies complete, just as it was in the pelt, and it is hard to realize that the skin below has actually been removed. This is to facilitate the work of the sorters who select from the belt as it passes them just the parts desired for various grades of hats. The sorting is according to color and quality, each sorter selecting a different part, such as the side or back, suitable for a particular grade of hat.

Although cleaned, carotted and sorted, the fur is by no means ready for use. It has to be seasoned, just like lumber, and is stored until ready for use. Some manufacturers have a million or two dollars' worth of fur seasoning in storage. When the fur is properly seasoned it is fixed in certain proportions to produce the desired texture and color, and from here on the work is not done mechanically but by hand, being mainly a question of art and skill. After various portions of different kinds of fur have been selected the actual mixing is done by a machine which blows them about in various compartments until the blending is perfectly even.

A certain amount of fur is then weighed out, according to the weight of the hat to be made, and blown upon a copper cone perforated with many thousand tiny holes, so that it looks like a sieve. The cone is about three feet in height and as wide at the base. An exhaust fan operates inside and below the cone so that the air and fur are drawn from the outside. The air passes through the openings, but the fine particles of fur stick and cover the whole surface.

The cone holding the film of fur is inclosed in a snugly fitting jacket and lowered into a vat of boiling water. This develops the felting properties of the fur, the particles of which mat and lock together, enabling the thin, delicate film of wet fur to be lifted from the cone. The resulting cone of fur is a very delicate embryo hat, except as to size; in that respect it might be the hat for a giant.

A bundle of about twelve of these large forms is rolled in a wet condition until the fibers knit together slightly, giving the hats hardness and strength. Then they are put into a sizzling kettle, where they are shrunk in hot water, beaten and manipulated until they are between ten and fourteen inches in diameter. Each hat is then stretched, pulled and blocked with the aid of hot water until it takes the form of a regular hat with crown and brim.

If the hat is to be a soft one it has only to be placed on a block and finished with fine sandpaper, which gives it a velvety appearance. The outside band and binding and the sweat band are then added, after which the brim is curled.

Stiff hats, or derbies, are saturated with a solution of shellac before they are blocked. They are then put into an oven until they become pliable, when they are blocked with a tremendous pressure on a mold which shapes and curls them at one operation. Following which they are lined and trimmed.

Trouble Enough.

"Telephone, sir."
"What is it?"
"Your wife wants you home at once."
"What's the trouble?"
"She has a tight gown, can't stoop, and the drip pan under the refrigerator is running over."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Letter From the Sky

By SARAH BAXTER

Mme. Benard, the wife of Major Benard of the —th regiment of the line of the French army, was in the habit of appropriating any good looking second lieutenant whom she could induce to be attentive to her.

One day a young lieutenant, Louis Detaille, reported at the garrison for duty, and the moment Mme. Benard saw him she determined to appropriate him. He was a rosy cheeked boy scarcely out of his teens and before his departure to join his regiment had proposed to and been accepted by his cousin, Delphine Dumont. Mme. Benard was double his age and had lost whatever beauty she had possessed. The lieutenant desired to give all his spare time to writing love letters to his sweetheart and had no inclination to devote himself to the major's wife. Unfortunately for him, he was too young, too unsophisticated to know the danger of refusing advances from such a woman and frankly told the lady that he was engaged to a girl he dearly loved and had neither time nor inclination to devote himself to her.

Mme. Benard's eye flashed, but Detaille's eyes were modestly cast down at the time, and when he ventured to raise them he saw a sympathetic smile. "You dear boy!" she exclaimed. "Tell me all about her. Is she dark? Is she fair? Is she very young and does she love you as you love her?"

Disarmed, Detaille became garrulous about the girl he loved, and before the end of the interview madame had got her name and address.

Detaille had not been in garrison a month before Germany declared war upon France and French troops were rushed northward into Belgium. Before his departure, while there was yet peace, Mme. Dumont received an anonymous letter warning her against her lover, who was devoting himself to the wife of one of the officers.

Mme. Benard, after listening to Detaille's rhapsodies concerning his fiancée, did not relinquish her grip upon him, and so marked were her attentions to him that he fancied her husband was becoming jealous of her. Besides, he had become suspicious of her. As soon as he came to a halt on his way to Belgium he wrote her a letter which was designed to set himself right in the matter, putting in writing what he had told her—that he had a sweetheart to whom he was devotedly attached and had no interest whatever in any one else. This letter he copied and inclosed the duplicate in a letter to his sweetheart, explaining why he sent it to her.

The epistle to Mme. Benard he sent first, and it reached her in due time. By the time he dispatched the one to Mme. Dumont the Germans were pushing the French back upon Paris. The courier who carried the mail was captured by the Germans and was sent to the headquarters of the German army.

Meanwhile the anonymous letter which was written by Mme. Benard to Mme. Dumont had reached the latter and nearly broke her heart. She was too young and innocent to know the difference between the work of a friend and a fiend and supposed the warning had come from one who did not wish to see her injured. She kept her secret locked in her breast, where it burned and burned until it seemed to her that she could endure it no longer, but she did not write to her lover reproaching him for having so soon forgotten her. At first Detaille thought nothing of this, for every day there was a battle, and as for mails, if one came through from Paris it was not likely to be distributed.

For a time after the war opened Paris was attacked by dirigibles, which sailing over the city, dropped bombs upon it. One day when considerable damage had been done by one of these air craft, a street gamin who was gazing at it with more curiosity than fear, saw slowly circling down toward him through the air a bit of paper. It fell near him, and he picked it up. It was a letter. The gamin, not being able to read the superscription, showed it to a gendarme, who read, "Mlle. Delphine Dumont, No. — Rue —, Paris," and handed it back to the gamin.

Now, the boy was not bright enough to make a guess as to where the letter came from; but, thinking to make a few sous, he took it to its address.

When Mme. Dumont heard that a boy wished to see her with a letter she went to him and on seeing it and reading the superscription asked him where he got it.

"From the sky, mademoiselle," was the reply.

The girl had never seen the writing before. Tearing open the envelope, she found a letter addressed to her in German and bearing the signature of a lieutenant in the German aviation corps and an inclosure addressed to her in her lover's handwriting. The latter she opened feverishly. It was the duplicate of the one Detaille had sent to Mme. Benard and which had been captured by the Germans. The letter inclosing it read as follows:

Dear Mademoiselle—I send bombs down on your city in the line of my duty. It gives me pleasure to send also to you personally a letter the non-receipt of which may have been troubling you.

Delphine ran upstairs to a glove box where she kept her pin money and, selecting a gold piece, gave it to the boy, who looked at it in wonder.

A few days later Delphine received word that her lover had been brought to Paris wounded, and she nursed him back to health.

Bay State Street Railway.

Increased connections between its cars and the steam trains at the Atlantic, Braintree, East Milton, Norfolk Downes, Quincy, South Weymouth, West Quincy, Weymouth Heights and Hingham railroad stations is the purpose of the Bay State Street Railway Company in an order covering the Quincy Division, which became effective Friday, April 28.

The Company has prepared, after a careful study of the situation, a schedule showing its cars which—if normal conditions prevail—may be depended upon to make good connections with out-going trains at the railroad stations named. The schedule also lists certain cars which will connect and in certain cases wait a reasonable period in order to connect with incoming trains at those stations.

It is the expectation that the new arrangement will prove a boon to those who make daily use of both street car and train. A glance at the schedule will show readily how time may be saved at these railroad stations and long wait for train or street car avoided.

In certain cases cars of the Bay State which have not because of unavoidable circumstances heretofore made connections with important trains are by a re-arrangement made to do so. Car crews are instructed to use every endeavor consistent with safe operation to make these connections, but the Company obviously cannot guarantee them.

New time tables showing these connections can be secured at the Street Railway office.

Connections at the railroad stations follow:

EMOTIONAL ACTRESSES.

Temperament on the Stage and the Task of Managing It.

You hear a lot about the artistic temperament in and out of the theatrical trenches. There's only one way to manage a temperamental woman on the stage, said a well known leading man the other day, and that is to be in love with her. I was never so fortunate myself, but I have seen it work out with others again and again. They hate the man who won't admire them, and they laugh at the man who does. Their nerves are always thumping them into action till their hearts are bursting and their brains are in a whirl.

One of our emotional actresses in her prime was the most febrile, fearless, radiant witch of a woman the stage ever had. She was always on fire, intellectually and every other way. During one engagement in New York she wasn't on speaking terms with any one in the front of the house, except one man, and he was always telling her how wonderful she was. No one else dared go near her for fear she'd kill them with the first thing she'd say. They're just like angry leopards, some of them. They must be humored, conquered with patience, firmness and kindness.

A well known English star, who has always been famous for being difficult to manage, used to hate the sight of a manager. She could wither any man who was not her mental equal till he literally crumpled to pieces, and she loved nothing better. There were so many who were not her equal too. She knew most men were afraid of her, and she kept them in that delicious state of dread. They called it "temperament." She called it something more fitting—brains.—Theater Magazine.

One of London's Seven Curses.

There are in London thousands of poor folks whose principal meals come from the fried fish shop which, because of its evil smell, has been described as "one of the seven curses of London." Yet to a hungry man the smell of fried fish is a most enticing odor. George Gissing has described how maddening it was to him in his darkest days "to smell the fish he had no money to purchase," and how, when affluent to the extent of a few coppers, he "eagerly bought and devoured the crisp golden colored slices of fresh cooked fish—surely the food of the gods."—London Chronicle.

Her Pride Hurt.

"Your fashionable friend seems to be threatened with palpitation of the heart."

"Yes; she just received a dreadful shock."

"And what happened to fortune's favorite?"

"She was sitting in an employment office waiting for a chance to look at a cook when a haughty dame swept up and offered her a job."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

An Extremist.

"What in the world does old Kloseman want with more money? He hasn't any near relatives, and he doesn't begin to spend his income now."

"That's just the point. He wants to economize on a larger scale."—Boston Transcript.

He Had Painted Too.

"My dear fellow," said the artist, "you can't imagine how much work there was in painting that picture."

"Oh, yes, I can," said the young country lad; "my father made me paint the barn one summer."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Wash Mellotone Walls and They Are Bright as New

How much prettier and more cheerful our rooms have been since we took off the wall paper and put on Mellotone is far more artistic and beautiful than wall paper or kalsomine. The rich, delicate colors—soft as the rainbow tints—will lighten your whole home.

Mellotone Saves Money because it is so wonderfully durable. It is not easily scratched or marred. The colors do not fade. It makes house cleaning easy. Instead of the mess and work of papering or kalsomining, you wash off Mellotone walls and they look bright as new.

There is only one Mellotone and it is made by Lowe Brothers with the Little Blue Flag trademark. Ask for color card and see the beautiful sample patches at our store.

FRIDAY, MAY 5, 1916

A year ago silver bullion was selling for 47 cents an ounce, it has now soared above 70 cents and yet a U. S. silver dollar will buy only about one-half as much paper stock as it would buy on May 1st, 1915.

By a decision of the School Committee of Boston the school children of that city can go on singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," join in Christmas Carols or any other songs which tend to inspire a noble Christian life and why not? That is what we are here for.

There are now 15,000 college men enrolled in the military training camps of the East, training as reserve officers. Preparedness is no doubt a good movement but what can Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood do with so many officers and so small an army as he now has in sight.

April 30 was the 1st anniversary of the torpedoing of the Lusitania and up to date the matter of right or wrong in sinking a ship laden with human lives including women and children seems to be far from settlement. Nineteen years ago a United States battleship was sent to the bottom in Cuba and before the responsibility for her destruction was established the battle cry, "Remember the Maine," went up. Armies and navies were rushed to the front, the Spanish navy practically annihilated, the battle at Manila fought and the Philippines taken, Cuba and other West India islands placed under the U. S. flag pending an adjustment of difficulties and the question now is, why the difference. Have we made a rapid stride towards peace on earth—or what?

John D. Buckley Dead.

John D. Buckley, 57, died at his home Sunday night after a short illness with pneumonia. He was a shoe maker by trade and is survived by his widow, two daughters and a son. Requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Francis Xavier church, by the pastor Rev. Dennis P. Crimmins Wednesday morning.

WEYMOUTH HEIGHTS

The postponed annual meeting of the Weymouth Heights Improvement Society will be held at the church next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. James B. Jones has been spending a few days with her brother in Providence, R. I.

Mrs. Paul Smith has been enjoying the company of her father, Mr. Marr of Portland, Me.

Miss Edith Bates was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Andrews of Campello on Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Edward J. Yaezer will conduct the service to be held at the Town Home on next Sunday afternoon.

The Uwikana club pleasantly surprised Miss Theoda Merrill on Tuesday evening when they gave her a Farewell Party at the home of Mrs. Albert Newcomb. A program of games was enjoyed and refreshments served, but the feature of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful gold brooch to Miss Merrill from the club.

The Samuel Cabot Estate, formerly known as "Chandler's Farm," has recently been purchased by the H. S. Moody Land Co. for the purpose of development. This property comprises over 100 acres, having a high elevation being on a peninsula directly opposite Harbor Villa, the late successful development by this company and has over a mile of water frontage.

Congregational Church Notes

Persons wishing to take a tour through the Fairy land of Japan will assemble at the Old North church next Sunday at 7:30 p. m. The music will be under the direction of Alice W. Merrill. Everyone is heartily invited to join this company and to welcome others to share in "The Americans in Japan Tours."

Under the church notes of last week, there should have been included a list of the young people, who were received into the membership and fellowship of the church at the service on Easter morning. The following are the names: Edward Bates, Ruth Freeman, Ruth E. Sladen, Marion A. Lent, Isabel Jones, Mifs Bertha Nash and Miss Helen Ries.

The Parish and Prudential Committees met at the home of Rufus Bates on Tuesday evening and awarded the contracts for the shingling of the chapel and annex roofs and for the decorating of the interior of the chapel. The expense is being met by personal contributions and by organizations of the community. Mr. Rufus Bates is treasurer and Mr. Walter Sladen is clerk of the committee having the matter in charge.

TOWN BUSINESS.

Selectmen's Business and Other Departments of Work and Expenditures.

The N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co. filed a petition on Monday for permit to erect eight poles on Front street. A hearing on the same will be held at the Selectmen's office on Monday, the 15th.

On Tuesday and Thursday, the Selectmen with the new Superintendent of Streets, Quincy E. Johnson, took in a survey and inspection of roads and bridges in town for the purpose of mapping out work.

An application was received from a Boston party to dig clams at the shore front, but the Selectmen say Weymouth clams for Weymouth people and "Nothing Doing" for outsiders.

Mrs. Jacob Reddy, an inmate of the Town Home, was taken to the Carney Hospital in Boston on Tuesday, for the purpose of amputating one of her feet.

Much of the time of the "Board" on Monday was spent in considering applications for Victualers' licenses, for which there were more than thirty applications and twenty-eight were granted, and in many of them we may well ask: What does a victualer's license signify?

Thomas Boyle was appointed special police.

The board of Fire Engineers met Tuesday evening with the new Ward 3 engineer R. B. Worster in attendance. The board organized with the choice of W. W. Pratt chief and John Q. Hunt clerk.

To increase its charity fund the W.R.C. conducted a May party in the Masonic Temple hall at East Weymouth Wednesday night. Mrs. Charlotte B. Stoddard and a corps of women had charge. There was orchestral music with dancing until midnight.

Police Notes.

Officer Holmes has been appointed by the Quincy bridge trustees, for duty at the bridge, on holidays and Sundays, during the summer.

Chief Pratt will have his traffic squad on duty Sunday.

The Chief has made arrangements for the placing of several "silent policemen" at bad corners and in squares about town. The signals are different than those now used in town, as they have a red flag at the top for use daytimes and at night the flag is removed and a red lantern placed at the top.

The Police Chiefs club of Massachusetts held their regular meeting in Worcester on Thursday as the guest of Chief George H. Hill of that city. An all day program was carried out beginning with a reception in the Mayor's chamber at 11:15, a meeting of the Chiefs at 12:05, luncheon following. Inspection of police headquarters and an auto trip about the city to all the public places and institutions. A banquet at the Hotel Brainerd at 5 o'clock completed the day. Chief Pratt reports the time one of the best ever.

Notice.

The Weymouth Visiting Nurse association will hold a special meeting in Grand Army hall, East Weymouth, Friday evening, May 12 at 8 o'clock. All interested in the work are most cordially invited to attend. Miss Gerude Pebody of the Boston Nurse's association will address the meeting.

TIME IS THE TEST.

The Testimony of Weymouth People Stands the Test.

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Weymouth people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? Below is testimony such as the sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Asa K. Binney, 112 Broad street, Weymouth, says: "I had a severe backache and my kidneys were weak and irregular in action. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills made a great improvement, lessening the pains and correcting the kidney action. After using three boxes, I was entirely relieved." (Statement given May 5, 1913.)

On April 4, 1916, Mr. Binney said: "I surely am as high a booster for Doan's Kidney Pills now as ever. I keep them in my home in case of necessity but it is very seldom that I need them, for they gave me permanent benefit."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Binney had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

NORTH WEYMOUTH.

—Luther Pratt is confined to her bed with a severe attack of rheumatism.

—Mrs. George Beane, Mrs. J. W. Thomas, Mrs. A. J. Sidelinger and Mrs. B. F. Thomas were delegates from the Pilgrim Congregational church to the Norfolk Association Convention in Randolph on Tuesday of this week.

—A. W. Bartlett is having a week's vacation and spending the most of it at Atlantic City. On the way home he will visit his brother, Herbert Bartlett at his home in Maple Shade, N. J.

—Mrs. Fred Holden and son, Russell of Keene, N. H., have been the recent guests of Mrs. R. H. Whiting.

—The May breakfast at the Universalist church on Tuesday was a great success. There was a good patronage and the menu of oranges, cereals, bacon, eggs, griddle cakes, hot biscuits, doughnuts, cheese and coffee, was thoroughly appreciated.

—E. F. Bain of Sea Street has gone to Russia on a business trip of several months. While away Mrs. Bain and children are visiting in Los Angeles, Cal.

—Russell Tufts has been ill the past week with an attack of rheumatism.

—A party of a dozen ladies enjoyed the trip to Plymouth on Monday, some by auto, some by train. The main attraction was the May-day dinner gotten up every year by the ladies of the Universalist church in Plymouth. Among the party were Mrs. Leighton and Mrs. Parker of Quincy, summer residents of North Weymouth, and Mrs. Leighton's mother, 80 years old, who came from Medford alone to take in this trip to Plymouth and the May breakfast.

—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kavanagh celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary by entertaining relatives from Lynn.

—Mrs. Paul F. Brown of Hunt's hill has been spending the week in Lynn.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clapp entertained friends Friday evening last in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary.

—Rev. Sanford Mitchell was the minister at the Universalist church last Sunday as Rev. A. F. Walsh was unable to come.

—Miss Mary Thomas of East Milton has been the recent guest of her nephew, Charlie Brown for a few days.

—A large delegation from the Universalist church attended the Old Colony Association Convention on Wednesday in South Weymouth.

—The orator, "Elijah" is to be given on the "Braves" field Sunday afternoon, May 28. The soloists are grand opera stars. The chorus of about 1500 is made up of the choral societies in and around Boston. Thanks to James Calderwood the Weymouth Choral society is prepared to take its part in this big event. About a dozen from this part of the town have crossed this opportunity and are attending the weekly rehearsals on Wednesday evenings in Hancock hall, the Weymouth and Quincy choral societies combining.

—Mrs. J. W. Bartlett entertained Mrs. Edward Wyman and Miss Lucy Wyman, Mrs. E. Barry and Mrs. Helen Frieze all of Ayer on Monday, in honor of her birthday anniversary. Mrs. Bartlett received many callers and post cards, evidences of many friends in town.

—The Universalist ladies' sewing circle will hold its last meeting of the season next Wednesday afternoon. Supper at 6 o'clock.

—Mrs. Della B. Bilheimer passed away on Sunday at the home of her nephew, Edward Stone on Bartlett street. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Stephen C. Lang of the Quincy Point Congregational church officiating.

—The Ladies' Social Circle of Pilgrim church gave an Easter supper in the vestry of the church on Wednesday evening April 26. The menu included chicken pie, egg salads, fancy pies and cakes and tarts. An agent from the Automatic Flour Company was on hand, together with a demonstrator who made biscuits which were served hot to those in attendance. The committee in charge were Mrs. John Batey, Miss Lillian Curtis, Mrs. John W. Cushing, Mrs. Manuel Page, Mrs. Horace Walker, Miss Martha Burrell, Mr. W. O. Collier, Mrs. Charles Williams and Miss Lillian Trussell. The entertainment which followed included a cornet solo by Miss Hazel Smith, vocal solos by Harold Hayden accompanied by his brother, Irving Hayden, and the sketch entitled "A Difference in Clocks," presented by Mrs. Elbert Ford and Mr. Howard H. Joy of South Weymouth.

—Rev. R. D. Cramer of Morrisville, Vt. will occupy the pulpit at the Universalist church next Sunday. Rev. Mr. Cramer comes as a candidate.

—The North Weymouth Village Improvement Association met in the Engine Hall of Ward 1 Wed night with Henry A. Day presiding. An address on the subject, "Fire Protection" was delivered by John Robertson of Canton. A collation was served. "Clean-Up Week" was discussed and $5 was appropriated for the work.

Pilgrim Church Notes.

The regular services will be held next Sunday with the monthly communion service following the morning service.

The Y. P. C. E. will hold an entertainment and sale this Friday evening. The play, "Romantic Mary" will be given by talent from the Y. P. C. E. connected with the Union Congregational church, South Weymouth.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the ladies' circle of the Pilgrim church was held on Wednesday.

SPORTING NOTES.

South Weymouth To Be Well Represented.

South Weymouth is assured of being well represented on the diamond this summer, by the South Weymouth White Sox a very fast amateur team. The boys are in hopes of having new suits for their first game which will be played at the Fair grounds May 30 (P.M.) A public subscription has been started to furnish funds with which to buy the suits and Mgr. Frank Torrey strongly urges the hearty support (both financially and by attending the games) without which the team cannot be made a success. It is the intention of those in charge of the team to have as many players from South Weymouth as talent will allow.

Dwyer and Reed will probably do most of the pitching while Hirte and Dyer are having a little contest of their own for the receiving end. "Bob" Hatt the High school star will hold down the first sack, Johnson or Selmer second, Humphrey third, Capt. Stone will tramp down the grass in right field with Zwecker, Cullinane or Santry as companions. Manager Torrey announces the following schedule for the summer:

May 30 p. m., Medford Athletics at Weymouth.
June 3, Copeland Club at Quincy.
June 10, Pilgrim A. A. of Lynn at Weymouth.
June 17, Breezy Hill of Hingham at Weymouth.
June 24, Copeland club at Weymouth.
July 1, Open.
July 4, Pending.
July 8, Breezy Hill at Hingham.
July 15, Pending.
July 22, Abington Y.M.C.A. at Abington.
July 29, Boston Y.M.C.A. at Weymouth.
Aug. 5, Warland A.A. of Cambridge at Weymouth.
Aug. 12, Beechwood A. C. at Newtonville.
Aug. 19, Abington Y.M.C.A. at Weymouth.
Aug. 26, Pere Marquette K. of C. of Boston at Weymouth.
Sept. 2, Pending.
Sept. 9, Rosindale A. A. at Weymouth.

"Why the Laughter, Bridie?"

"It's a joke on mother, She came over this afternoon and started the old sob about my having to live in this little coop after father's magnificent home. So just to ease her feelings I took her out to the kitchen to see our new gas range. You know hers was the second one made and only one burner gives anything more than a glow. Ours nearly broke her heart.

"Then, one after another, I had her compare my hard wood floors with her splintery ones; my open plumbing to hers, my lighting fixtures to her wabbly ones. The final blow was in our bathroom. When she turned on the hot water and saw it instantly gush out steaming hot although there wasn't a suggestion of fire in my cool kitchen, she fairly collapsed. Said she was going to divorce father and marry a poor man, so she could get a few modern improvements.

"I told her she could get the hot water anyway, just by telling the Gas Company to put in a Ruud Automatic Water Heater. She's going to break the news to father tonight."

ON THE FARM

Subscribe for this paper. This column alone is worth more than $2.00 a year if you have a garden or keep a horse, cow, pigs or hens.

Even the smallest back yard may be made to yield a supply of fresh vegetables for the family table at but slight expense.

Sweet and sour milk are of equal value in chick feeding. The degree of sourness does not affect the nutritive value.

If the plants come up too thickly thin them out, but do not try to save on the seeds by sowing too thinly, for it is much cheaper to pull extra plants out than to have vacant spaces.

For building up soil, clover should be used instead of timothy. Its roots can store nitrogen, which the plant takes from the air, so that even when part of the crop is removed a great deal of plant food is left behind.

It is quite important to use manure in right ways, because this farm by-product has become very valuable of late years when practically all soils have lost much of their virgin fertility, and now must be fed in some way to make paying crops possible.

Estimate as closely as possible the amount of each vegetable that you will want at the opening of the cropping season and sow seed accordingly, following with supplementary planting a week later, and so on throughout the season with all vegetable for which there is time for two or more crops.

The farmer who farms as his grandfather did, without ever giving a thought to the reasons why he does thus, and so, can never make the best kind of a farmer. The study of principles is necessary so that conditions may be overcome which vary in different parts of the farm and in different years.

The method of cutting when pruning apple trees is very important. The best advice is to cut every branch, whether large or small, as close as possible to the part from which it is taken. Never leave stubs, for stubs will not permit the healing over of the wounds, but may induce decay. Make all cuts smooth and close.

The Langshan shows its ancestry in its proud carriage and stately bearing. This breed excels them all for winter laying, and as a table fowl the flavor and texture of its flesh is unsurpassed. The flesh is white, like the turkey, and the large breast and thighs are appreciated by lovers of roast chicken.

Making every hill contain at least two stalks, and each stalk, contain at least one average-sized ear, is the secret of successful corn raising. As soon as the corn is an inch high, replant every hill that contains no plants. While this may be a little later than the first planting, and some may not get out of the way of frost, it will make good cattle feed if nothing more.

Many meadows and pastures are destroyed by management. The farmer is in too great hurry to realize from his investment and does not give the grass an opportunity to become fully established, cattle being turned in to trample the field at a season when the ground is wet, or graze it closely when the land may be in need of rain.

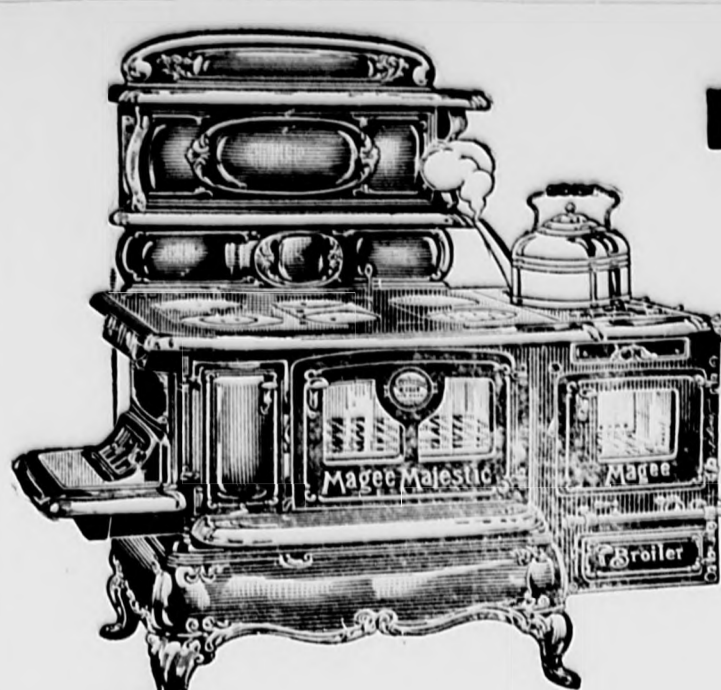

It may surprise some to be told that it is almost time to set out early cabbage, but those who grow the earliest heads set them out in cold frames and cover them at night. It is a laborious method, but the articles that pay best are those that require the most labor.

There are fundamental points which the beginner must consider when establishing his poultry flock. The first is to select a breed which, by nature, is adapted to his particular purpose. Next he must study carefully the manner of acquiring his foundation stock, as well as the season and the way in which he will begin. Again, he must consider carefully the selection of the strain or family of birds which he is to use, looking well into the conditions of health, age, productivity and standard qualifications.

Mating birds with standard requirements will maintain the present high stand, but only by mating the specimens of rarest excellence can we hope to make further improvement. And right here again the Black Langshan shows its great value and its well-fixed characteristics from long and careful breeding proves so helpful, especially to the back yard breeder or to the farmer who is not making a scientific study of poultry breeding.

TWENTY-ONE YEARS AGO.

Recollect that we have the best facilities for all kinds of mercantile and other job printing of any printing house in Norfolk county. Prices reasonable and satisfaction guaranteed; if you are looking for job work, give us a call.

The person who stole the lamp from the lamp-post in front of F. Webster Land's residence last Friday evening, may have the post by calling at his own convenience on Mr. Land who has no further use for it.

The Quincy and Boston road are keeping up with the season and are running open cars this morning, which gives their patrons an opportunity to breathe the balmy air of spring.

Considering the cold wind which has prevailed the herring catch this week has been unusually large and the indications are, if the warm weather sets in the catch of the season will be one of the largest on record.

The handsome residence of Mr. and Mrs. Grace W. Allen on Monatiquot avenue, Braintree was the scene last Tuesday evening of a very pretty wedding ceremony, by which their daughter, Helen Russell Faxon Allen and Russell Goddard Hunt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund S. Hunt of Weymouth, were made one.

At the meeting of the Selectmen on Monday, W. O. Collier, Edward Fahy, F. M. Drown, M. P. Sprague and Orls Cushing were appointed engineers for the ensuing year. The newly appointed officers met in Engine hall Ward 2 Tuesday night and organized by the choice of Orls Cushing as chief and W. O. Collier as clerk.

EIGHTEEN YEARS AGO.

The dedication of the Fogg Library which was to have occurred this month will not take place until July.

Show your patriotism, celebrate Dewey's victory and hope for a speedy termination of the war by decorating with "Old Glory".

Last Saturday an enormous flag was raised over Central square. In a few hours the prevalent high winds made it look like an abandoned American banner on a United States consulate in Madrid.

The three aspirants who have announced themselves as candidates for the position of postmaster, Messrs. F. M. Drown, Geo. P. Lyon and W. E. Cunningham, are circulating petitions this week for signatures.

If the selectmen would kindly post a few more bicycle notices prohibiting sidewalk riding all of our cyclists would use the side of the street and allow our mounted citizens to travel in the road.

Yesterday Mrs. Mercy Holmes, mother of Mrs. B. S. Lovell, passed the 84th mile stone on the long road of life. A large number of friends called to congratulate the aged lady, who although feeble in bodily health retains her other faculties to a remarkable degree.

A Case of Human Justice

By ALAN HERTSDALE

Reading incidents connected with the part taken by Russia in the great European war brings back to me my own part in the fate of a single Russian person years ago. I was a press correspondent in the dominions of the czar in one of the provinces northeast of St. Petersburg when, looking down a road covered with snow, I saw a mass of beings coming slowly toward me. When they came to where I could distinguish them I saw that they were a body of political prisoners marching under guard and doubtless bound for Siberia.

My attention was arrested by a girl not over eighteen years of age. She fixed her eyes on mine for a moment, and in that brief glance I read a tale which made my heart bleed. It betokened one who was buoyed up by the consciousness of suffering for a great cause, but whose life was nevertheless blighted. She passed on, trudging through the snow, knowing that she would be shut up within the dreadful Kara inclosure. I did not suppose for a moment that I would ever see her again.

But I did. Six years after this meeting I was in London. One evening I attended the opera and, looking up from the parquet at one of the boxes, there was the girl I had seen on her way to Siberia. But, oh, how changed! What a picture of past suffering! There was the same loftiness, but it was tinged with melancholy, that melancholy which comes from endurance of agony. And yet there was a temporary absence of endurance.

"Who is that lady?" I asked a friend who knew every one in London. "That is Adela Alexandrovna, the daughter of a Russian nobleman. She has a history. Her father is one of the czar's trusted officers. She was caught in some complication with revolutionists and sent to Siberia. Her father succeeded in interesting the czar in her, and a pardon was secured for her, but it was coupled with a banishment. She came to England, and it is supposed that the czarina has opened a way for her here. At any rate, she is received in society in London."

When the war broke out I returned to Russia as correspondent for an English journal and accompanied the army that moved against the Austrian frontier. I was a witness of the terrible fighting that occurred during that campaign and wondered if some wave of madness had not swept down upon Europe. I grew sick writing descriptions of the carnage, the universal distress, the agony of women and children. It seemed to me that the clock of the civilized world had been turned back to the middle ages, when every man was a soldier and every soldier was a butcher.

In one of the terrible battles between the Austrians and the Russians I went out to draw my word pictures of its horrors to feed the appetite of readers all over the world. Then for the first time I saw modern warfare, the slaughter of men by machinery, while the aeroplanes floating above seemed to me like huge birds of prey waiting for their feast on the corpses.

When I had seen all I could stand I went to the rear, where the wounded were being carried and, bending over the litter on which rested a dying soldier, who should I see in the uniform of a Red Cross nurse but the woman who had passed me on her way to Siberia and at the opera in London.

Again she was changed. At my first meeting with her she was a beginner in a life of sacrifice; at the second she had seemed out of place in the gay world. Now she appeared to have become accustomed to her work for others. Though now and again a bullet sang in her ears, it made no more impression upon her than if a snowflake had dropped on her shoulder. She was taking the last words of a dying soldier, spoken through her to loved ones far away who were doubtless praying that he might be returned to them.

She remained beside him while he drew a few long breaths, and when they ceased she arose, with a momentary sadness on her face, to devote herself to another butchered by her fellow men. I followed her with my eyes as she moved from one to another, making one more comfortable in his position, giving another water and speaking words of sympathy to a third.

After this came the driving back of the Russians, the fall of Warsaw and the establishment of a defense line farther eastward. But the fighting continued. I remained with the Russian army, from time to time writing descriptions of scenes which I witnessed and sending them as best I could to America. One of the most impressive I give here in substance.

One morning, hearing that the czar would decorate a Red Cross nurse who had been conspicuous for her attention to the wounded in a battle, I went to witness the ceremony. Troops were drawn up in two lines, waiting. Presently the nurse to be decorated, attended by several officers, marched to a position between the lines, where they, too, stood waiting. Then the czar, surrounded by his staff, appeared, went to the point where the last comers stood and pinned a medal on the woman's breast. Then the band played the national hymn.

When the newly decorated girl left the ground she passed very near me. She was the girl I had first met on her way to Siberia and again at the opera in London.

WEYMOUTH AND EAST BRAINTREE

—See the Ballet Girls in the K. of C. Minstrel Show at Bates Opera House on next Thursday night. An abundance of clean wit and local "knocks." A chorus of 50 male voices. Secure your seats at E. P. White's store.—Advt.

—Clean-Up Week is being observed in our neighboring town of Braintree and much good is being accomplished. The residents are all taking hold well and assisting the committee in the general clean-up. Mrs. Eugene Weber is chairman of the Braintree Clean-Up committee.

—William E. Thayer of this place is one of the prominent workers on the Boston Clean-Up week committee, as well as on his home town's committee for the same affair.

—David Justice and his wife of Montpelier spent the Easter holidays with his mother, Mrs. James M. Baxter, 307 Washington street. Mrs. Baxter's sister, Mrs. Fairweather and her husband from Brooklyn, N. Y., also spent Easter week.

—William R. Mackey moved this week into the house, 5 Field avenue, formerly occupied by Louis Gaillardet.

—Frank O'Brien of Pawtucket, R. I., has been spending a few days with his brother, Edward Z. O'Brien of 541 Washington street.

—Rev. R. D. Cranmer of Morrisville, Vt., will occupy the pulpit at the First Universalist church, Sunday, May 7th. Mr. Cranmer comes as a candidate.

—William Bacon, who 51 years ago was a driver for Baker's express, was in town Saturday. He is at present living in Whitman, having recently returned from Florida.

—Mrs. Alice Brown is here from Chicago, Ill., on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Clapp.

—George B. Loring arrived home last Friday from Florida where he has been spending the winter.

—Benjamin Cohen, who recently sold out his tailoring business, moved this week to Roxbury where he is to conduct a grocery store.

—Miss Lucy Clark of Boston, a former resident, was in town Sunday on a visit to Mrs. John Nolan of Broad street.

—Alan Warren is having a dwelling erected on his lot at Harbor Villa.

—Charles E. Leavitt leaves the first of next month for Brooklyn, N. Y., where he has a position in the navy yard as ship draughtsman. Mr. Leavitt with others throughout the country, took a civil service examination last October and came in third on the list.

—Miss Barbara Senior entertained forty of her young friends at a May party at Pythian hall, Saturday afternoon. Each of the young people were presented a May basket, cap and favor. There was games and dancing. Miss May L. Allen, pianist, furnished music for the dance. A lunch was served.

—Rev. A. P. Watson of the Union Congregational church preached Sunday morning in the East Braintree Methodist church in exchange with the pastor, Rev. E. M. Rugg. In the evening the parishioners of Union church joined with the people of the Weymouth Baptist church in a Union service at the latter church.

—Next Sunday in the Episcopal church will be Sailors' Day and at Trinity church, Weymouth, it will be so observed. The services will be appropriate to those whose business is on the sea, and Rev. William Hyde will preach sermons in harmony with Sailors' Day, but the day will also be observed in accordance with the clean-up movement or Clean-up Sunday.

—Miss Cella Archibald is home from Montreal on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Archibald.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Edwards, who have been in London for the past three years where Mr. Edwards is representative of the Westinghouse Company, will sail for home June first, if conditions are favorable.

—William Condrick shot a black snake Sunday afternoon in the field in the rear of the residence of Mrs. James Casey on Broad street. The reptile measured five feet, one inch.

—Clarence Curry has resigned his position at the Lincoln square market.

—Isadore Bloom has been spending a few days in New York.

—Friends of Mrs. George P. S. Smith of 3 Lisle street, East Braintree, are very glad to know that she has returned home from the hospital and that she is recovering rapidly from the operation for appendicitis.

—The employees of the Old Colony Gas Company held a private concert and dancing party in Pythian hall, Weymouth, on Friday evening, April 28th. The concert consisted of vocal solos by Messrs. Hanley and Cass of Brockton and Messrs. Jenkins and Rankin of the Old Colony Gas Company. Mr. Earle Furtaw gave violin solos, and Mr. Hanley also entertained with Yiddish impersonations. During the latter part of the evening Pratt's Ladies orchestra furnished the music for dancing. The party was well attended by employees and their friends, and a very enjoyable time spent.

—The home of Mrs. John F. Neal, 27 Kensington road was ransacked by thieves Tuesday night but as far as is known nothing was taken. Francis Neal and his sister, Esther Neal, had been out spending the evening and when they got near their home saw a flash light through the windows. They notified Inspector Fitzgerald and he went to the house and found that entrance had been effected by forcing a rear door.

Sunday school will meet at 12 o'clock. Communion will be at 4 o'clock.

Prayer meeting, Thursday evening at 7:30, subject: "Uplifts for Ordinary Days." The annual meeting of the Sunday school and Publishing society, the Church Building society, the Education society and the Home Missionary society will be held Wednesday and Thursday in the Park Street church, Boston. An excellent program of speaking and discussion has been provided.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

The column under this title will be given to the people for a free discussion of any and all subjects, the management of the paper distinctly disclaiming all responsibility for the opinions here expressed.

The people of North Weymouth take great pride in the village. They for the most part have well kept lawns and even clean back yards. The streets are cared for by the town and kept clean. These things tend to make a village good to look at by the townspeople and also the stranger passing through. Some time ago a large bill board was erected on Bridge street near the Point which unsightly in itself also spoils a beautiful view of the river which otherwise would be seen as one passes along the road. We thought this was bad enough but at present one is being erected in the center of the town at the corner of Standish road and Bridge street. We have a splendid improvement association which has done much for the good of this village but they say they are perfectly helpless as regards authority to prevent an outrage like this. We hear of towns that forbid anything of this sort and we hope the town officials will take interest enough in this matter to attend at once to the removal of these bill-boards.

A NORTH WEYMOUTHITE.

High School Notes.

For the benefit of the new piano fund, for the assembly hall of the Weymouth High school building, the school orchestra of 10 pieces and its glee club, 20 male voices, provided a concert in the assembly hall last Wednesday evening under the direction of James Calderwood. Miss Jennette Shaw contributed violin solos; Miss Flora McDonald, vocal numbers; Miss Theodora Keith, cornet solos; Miss Helen Corridan, readings; Frank Rand, clarinet selections, and Miss Dorothy Marden and Robert Hiatt played accompaniments.

A Weymouth Rebekah Honored.

The highest office to be bestowed to a member of the Mass. Rebekah Assembly has come to Mrs. Mary C. Granger of South Weymouth and this is the reward of long and faithful service and heart devotion to the work in which the Rebekahs are engaged.

Mrs. Granger won distinction passing through the long line of officers in her own lodge, and then passed on to higher position, was D. D. G. M. over the Hingham, Abington, Bridgewater and 13 lodges of Brockton, Quincy, Cohasset and Plymouth.

She was elected a member of the Assembly in 1913, filled the position of warden, vice president and is as we have said now at the head.

Mrs. Granger is an active member of the Past Noble Grand Association of the S. G. Mass. and by experience and observation is eminently fitted for the position to which she has been called.

W. R. C. Notes.

Mrs. Ida Keene and color bearers will assist in the Memorial service at Faneuil hall, Boston, on Sunday, May 7. Depts. Mrs. Annie Poole Atwood has again honored Corps 102 by appointing Mrs. Ida Keene, a department special aide and P. Pres. Mrs. Agnes F. Baldwin a department headquarters special aide.

The Good of the Order committee under the direction of Mrs. Ida Keene, have organized and planned the work to be done this year.

Members are reminded to bring pastry for corps supper Tuesday, May 9. A very interesting entertainment will be given in the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to the comrades and friends. As this is the last entertainment until after the September meeting.

Old Colony Woman's Club.

Mrs. Alice Wagner presided at the annual meeting of the Old Colony Club held in the auditorium of the Second Universalist church, South Weymouth, last Thursday. The following officers were elected: Miss Marion M. Tirrell, president; Mrs. Freeman Putney, Jr., and Mrs. William Wagner, vice presidents; Mrs. William Barnard, recording secretary; Miss Florence K. Howe, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Nelson J. Gay, treasurer; Mrs. Sidney R. Cook, Mrs. Jennie B. Worster, Mrs. Raymond Proctor, Mrs. Prince H. Tirrell and Mrs. Percy L. Bicknell, directors; Mrs. Frederic G. Bauer and Mrs. Chester Halnan auditors; Mrs. Josiah F. Prescott, custodian. Miss Florence King entertained with song and piano solos and readings and Miss Mary Marshall played cello solos. Mrs. Frederick Alden was hostess during the social hour.

SOUTH WEYMOUTH

—Your loss if you fail to see the K. of C. Minstrel Show in Bates Opera House on next Thursday night. A chorus of 50 male voices. By all means don't miss it.—Advt.

—Mrs. Samuel Ware is out again after a serious illness.

—Mrs. Alfred Tirrell has returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Sumner of Boston.

—A party of friends gave Miss Helena Cullinane a May basket shower, including a purse of gold on May night. The evening was spent with games and music.

—James Dondero of New York is in town for two weeks.

—Henry Selmar has resigned from the fire department.

—Mrs. Howland Bonney has returned to Plympton after an extended visit with her daughter here.

—Combination 5 answered an alarm from Box 43 on Tuesday evening. Two freight cars which had been made over into houses on Middle street were completely destroyed. The cause of the fire is unknown.

—Rev. Martin Kneeland of Boston spoke at the Universalist church on Sunday evening on the subject: "Seven Reasons in Seven Ages For One Day in Seven."

—The annual May party will be held in Fogg Opera House this evening (Friday). —Mrs. Isabelle Downs of Dorchester is the guest of local friends this week.

Combination 5 was called by telephone Monday morning at 4:30 to answer a fire in the unfinished cottage belonging to George W. Garey of Boston on Columbian street. The building was a total loss. The owner had been out over Sunday and had returned to the city Sunday evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Pratt are receiving congratulations on the birth of a boy born Tuesday.

—Wissahickon Camp Fire Girls met last Friday evening with their guardian, Mrs. Edmund Chandler of Union street.

—The young people of the Union church who gave "Romantic Mary" so cleverly at the Union church fair repeated it at North Weymouth at the Pilgrim church last evening (Thursday).

—Mrs. Edward Poole has returned from a Boston hospital where she recently underwent an operation.

The Social Circle of the Union church held a May breakfast in the vestry of the church, Tuesday morning, from 6 o'clock to 9. A large crowd attended during the course of the breakfast. Mrs. Louis A. Cook was the chairman and was assisted by the following committee: Miss Carrie Gardner, Mrs. Elbridge Nash, Mrs. Raymond Proctor, Mrs. Charles Proctor, Mrs. Marshall Sprague, Mrs. Charles Howard and Miss Mary Fogg.

—Denning Luxton has returned from Chicago, where he has been attending his wife who has been seriously ill in a Chicago hospital. Mrs. Luxton is now on the road to recovery.

—Charles Heald is confined to his home with a severe case of scarlet fever.

—The quarterly meeting of the Old Colony Universalist Association was held Wednesday at the Second Universalist church from 10 to 4 o'clock, with an attendance of several hundred. Addresses were given by Rev. Edward Downey of Norwood; Rev. Thomas J. Farmer of East Boston; Rev. Rufus Dix, formerly of Weymouth and now of Newtonville, and Rev. Arthur Sargent of Rockland. Rev. Fred A. Line of the local church also spoke. Rev. L. J. Richards of Stoughton, president of the Association, presided. At noon a dinner was served in the vestry of the church by the Ladies' Social Circle of the church.

—What promises to be the most artistic events of the seasons will be Miss Annie Deane's annual theatricals next Wednesday evening. For this year Miss Deane has chosen Frances Hodgson Burnett's beautiful child story, "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Its appeal will be confined to the kiddies, for the elders will be as interested in the adventures of Cedric Errol both in New York and in his grandfather's castle in England. The cast as announced will be found in Miss Deane's advertisement on page 8.

Old South Church Notes.

Sunday observance of the American Bible Society Centennial. Morning worship at 10:30 with sermon by the pastor to be followed by session of Sunday school and the morning music will be: Anthem, "Ye that Stand in the House," (Spencer) and solo, Mr. George Monroe, "My God and Father while I stray," (Marston).

Communion service at 2 o'clock p. m. At 6:30 combination service led by Rev. J. W. Lees, subject, "The Blessings of the Bible."

Prayer meeting at 7:45 Thursday evening.

Union Church, South Weymouth.

Sunday, May 7th, Mr. Price will preach the fifth and last sermon in the second group of sermons which he is giving. The subject of this sermon will be "Jesus' Teachings On Sin" instead of the title originally announced.

The Union Church Sunday school meets for worship, song and study at the noon hour. Classes for all ages of children and adults.

Christian Endeavor services at 6 p. m.

Universalist Church Notes.

The pastor, Rev. Fred A. Line, will preach at 10:30, his subject being "Unsettled Accounts." Vested choir under the direction of Miss Deane. Sunday school at 12 o'clock. N. Y. C. U. meeting at 5:30. Leader, Doris Churchill.

At 7 o'clock, the noted lecturer, Peter Macquenn, will lecture on "The Mexico of To-day." This lecture is beautifully illustrated with 150 slides. A Boston soloist will sing. This is the last illustrated lecture to be given in the church until next fall.

Mrs. Mary Sellers, Obituary.

Mrs. Mary Sellers died at her home on Pleasant street, Saturday, aged 65. She was the widow of Mark Haskell Sellers and is survived by a son, George Russell Sellers of this place. Mrs. Sellers was a native of Stoughton and had been a resident of this place for many years. Funeral services were held from her late home Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Ora A. Price of the Union Congregational church conducting them. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery. There were many floral offerings.

WEYMOUTH AND EAST BRAINTREE

—See the Ballet Girls in the K. of C. Minstrel Show at Bates Opera House on next Thursday night. An abundance of clean wit and local "knocks." A chorus of 50 male voices. Secure your seats at E. F. White's store. —Adv't.

—Clean-Up Week is being observed in our neighboring town of Braintree and much good is being accomplished. The residents are all taking hold well and assisting the committee in the general clean-up. Mrs. Eugene Webber is chairman of the Braintree Clean-Up committee.

—William E. Thayer of this place is one of the prominent workers on the Boston Clean-Up week committee, as well as on his home town's committee for the same affair.

—David Justice and his wife of Montclair spent the Easter holidays with his mother, Mrs. James M. Baxter, 307 Washington street. Mrs. Baxter's sister, Mrs. Fairweather and her husband from Brooklyn, N. Y., also spent Easter week.

—William R. MacKey moved this week into the house, 5 Field avenue, formerly occupied by Louis Gallardet.

—Frank O'Brien of Pawtucket, R. I., has been spending a few days with his brother, Edward Z. O'Brien of 541 Washington street.

—Rev. R. D. Cranmer of Morrisville, Vt., will occupy the pulpit at the First Universalist church, Sunday, May 7th. Mr. Cranmer comes as a candidate.

—William Bacon, who 51 years ago was a driver for Baker's express, was in town Saturday. He is at present living in Whitman having recently returned from Florida.

—Mrs. Alice Brown is here from Chicago, Ill., on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richmond Clapp.

—George B. Loring arrived home last Friday from Florida where he has been spending the winter.

—Benjamin Cohen, who recently sold out his tailoring business, moved this week to Roxbury where he is to conduct a grocery store.

—Miss Lucy Clark of Boston, a former resident, was in town Sunday on a visit to Mrs. John Nolan of Broad street.

—Alan Warren is having a dwelling erected on his lot at Harbor Villa.

—Charles E. Leavitt leaves the first of next month for Brooklyn, N. Y., where he has a position in the navy yard as ship draughtsman. Mr. Leavitt with others throughout the country, took a civil service examination last October and came in third on the list.

—Miss Barbara Senior entertained forty of her young friends at a May party at Pythian hall, Saturday afternoon. Each of the young people were presented a May basket, cap and favor. There was games and dancing. Miss May L. Allen, pianist, furnished music for the dance. A lunch was served.

—Rev. A. P. Watson of the Union Congregational church preached Sunday morning in the East Braintree Methodist church in exchange with the pastor, Rev. E. M. Rogz. In the evening the parishioners of Union church joined with the people of the Weymouth Baptist church in a Union service at the latter church.

—Next Sunday in the Episcopal church will be Sailors' Day and at Trinity church, Weymouth, it will be so observed. The services will be appropriate to those whose business is on the sea, and Rev. William Hyde will preach sermons in harmony with Sailors' Day, but the day will also be observed in accordance with the clean-up movement or Clean-up Sunday.

—Miss Celia Archibald is home from Montreal on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Archibald.

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Edwards, who have been in London for the past three years where Mr. Edwards is representative of the Westinghouse Company, will sail for home June first, if conditions are favorable.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

The column under this title will be given to the people for a free discussion of any and all subjects, the management of the paper distinctly disclaiming all responsibility for the opinions here expressed.

The people of North Weymouth take great pride in the village. They for the most part have well kept lawns and even clean back yards. The streets are cared for by the town and kept clean. These things tend to make a village good to look at by the townspeople and also the stranger passing through. Some time ago a large bill board was erected on Bridge street near the Point which unsightly in itself also spoils a beautiful view of the river which otherwise would be seen as one passes along the road. We thought this was bad enough but at present one is being erected in the center of the town at the corner of Standish road and Bridge street. We have a splendid improvement association which has done much for the good of this village but they say they are perfectly helpless as regards authority to prevent an outrage like this. We hear of towns that forbid anything of this sort and we hope the town officials will take interest enough in this matter to attend at once to the removal of these bill-boards.

A NORTH WEYMOUTHITE.

High School Notes.

For the benefit of the new piano fund, for the assembly hall of the Weymouth High school building, the school orchestra of 10 pieces and its glee club, 20 male voices, provided a concert in the assembly hall last Wednesday evening under the direction of James Calderwood. Miss Jennette Shaw contributed violin solos; Miss Flora McDonald, vocal numbers; Miss Theodora Keith, cornet solos; Miss Helen Corridan, readings; Frank Rand, clarinet selections, and Miss Dorothy Marden and Robert Hiatt played accompaniments.

A Weymouth Rebekah Honored.

The highest office to be bestowed to a member of the Mass. Rebekah Assembly has come to Mrs. Mary C. Granger of South Weymouth and this is the reward of long and faithful service and heart devotion to the work in which the Rebekahs are engaged.

Mrs. Granger won distinction passing through the long line of officers in her own lodge, and then passed on to higher position, was D. D. G. M. over the Hingham, Abington, Bridgewater and 13 lodges of Brockton, Quincy, Cohasset and Plymouth.

She was elected a member of the Assembly in 1913, filled the position of warden, vice president and is as we have said now at the head.

Mrs. Granger is an active member of the Past Noble Grand Association of the S. G. Mass. and by experience and observation is eminently fitted for the position to which she has been called.

W. R. C. Notes.

Mrs. Ida Keene and color bearers will assist in the Memorial service at Faneuil hall, Boston, on Sunday, May 7. Depts. Mrs. Annie Poole Atwood has again honored Corps 102 by appointing Mrs. Ida Keene, a department special aide and P. Pres. Mrs. Agnes F. Baldwin a department headquarters special aide.

The Good of the Order committee under the direction of Mrs. Ida Keene, have organized and planned the work to be done this year.

Members are reminded to bring pastry for corps supper Tuesday, May 9. A very interesting entertainment will be given in the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to the comrades and friends. As this is the last entertainment until after the September meeting.

Old Colony Woman's Club.

Mrs. Alice Wagner presided at the annual meeting of the Old Colony Club held in the auditorium of the Second Universalist church, South Weymouth, last Thursday. The following officers were elected: Miss Marion M. Tirrell, president; Mrs. Freeman Putney, Jr., and Mrs. William Wagner, vice presidents; Mrs. William Barnard, recording secretary; Miss Florence K. Howe, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Nelson J. Gay, treasurer; Mrs. Sidney R. Cook, Mrs. Jennie B. Worster, Mrs. Raymond Proctor, Mrs. Prince H. Tirrell and Mrs. Percy L. Bicknell, directors; Mrs. Frederic G. Bauer and Mrs. Chester Halnan auditors; Mrs. Josiah F. Prescott, custodian. Miss Florence King entertained with song and piano solos and readings and Miss Mary Marshall played cello solos. Mrs. Frederic Alden was hostess during the social hour.

—Mrs. Alfred Tirrell has returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Sumner of Boston.

—A party of friends gave Miss Helena Cullinane a May basket shower including a purse of gold on May night. The evening was spent with games and music.

—James Dondoro of New York is in town for two weeks.

—Henry Solmar has resigned from the fire department.

—Mrs. Howard Bonney has returned to Plympton after an extended visit with her daughter here.

—Combination 5 answered an alarm from Box 43 on Tuesday evening. Two freight cars which had been made over into houses on Middle street were completely destroyed. The cause of the fire is unknown.

—Rev. Martin Kneeland of Boston spoke at the Universalist church on Sunday evening on the subject: "Seven Reasons In Seven Ages For One Day In Seven."

—The annual May party will be held in Fogg Opera House this evening (Friday).

—Mrs. Isabelle Downs of Dorchester is the guest of local friends this week.

Combination 5 was called by telephone Monday morning at 4:30 to answer a fire in the unfinished cottage belonging to George W. Garry of Boston on Columbian street. The building was a total loss. The owner had been out over Sunday and had returned to the city Sunday evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Pratt are receiving congratulations on the birth of a boy born Tuesday.

—Wissahickon Camp Fire Girls met last Friday evening with their guardian, Mrs. Edmund Chandler of Union street.

—The young people of the Union church who gave "Romantic Mary" so cleverly at the Union church fair repeated it at North Weymouth at the Pilgrim church last evening (Thursday).

—Mrs. Edward Poole has returned from a Boston hospital where she recently underwent an operation.

—The Social Circle of the Union church held a May breakfast in the vestry of the church, Tuesday morning, from 6 o'clock to 9 A. M. A large crowd attended during the course of the breakfast. Mrs. Louis A. Cook was the chairman and was assisted by the following committee: Miss Carrie Gardner, Mrs. Elbridge Nash, Mrs. Raymond Proctor, Mrs. Charles Proctor, Mrs. Marshall Sprague, Mrs. Charles Howard and Miss Mary Fogg.

—Denning Luxton has returned from Chicago, where he has been attending his wife who has been seriously ill in a Chicago hospital. Mrs. Luxton is now on the road to recovery.

—Charles Heald is confined to his home with a severe case of scarlet fever.

—The quarterly meeting of the Old Colony Universalist Association was held Wednesday at the Second Universalist church from 10 to 4 o'clock, with an attendance of several hundred. Addresses were given by Rev. Edward Downey of Norwood; Rev. Thomas J. Farmer of East Boston; Rev. Rufus Dix, formerly of Weymouth and now of Newtonville, and Rev. Arthur Sargent of Rockland. Rev. Fred A. Line of the local church also spoke. Rev. L. J. Richards of Stoughton, president of the Association, presided. At noon a dinner was served in the vestry of the church by the Ladies' Social Circle of the church.

—What promises to be the most artistic events of the seasons will be Miss Annie Deane's annual theatricals next Wednesday evening. For this year Miss Deane has chosen Frances Hodgson Burnett's beautiful child story, "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Its appeal will not be confined to the kiddies, for the elders will be as interested in the adventures of Cedric Errol both in New York and in his grandfather's castle in England. The cast as announced will be found in Miss Deane's advertisement on page 8.

Old South Church Notes.

WEYMOUTH BOARD OF TRADE.

Jo. Mitchell Chapple Holds His Audience.

The May meeting of the Board of Trade in one respect at least, had the treat of a life time at its regular meeting Wednesday night. Owing to an unavoidable delay on the part of the speaker of the evening the meeting was a little late in starting but at the end those in attendance had lost nothing.

The meeting was called to order by the president at 8.15. Records of last meeting read by the secretary, Walter L. Bates and approved. Owing to the lateness of the hour there was but little routine business done. Walter L. Bates was appointed as delegate to the State Board of Trade. Henry A. Day appeared for the North Weymouth Improvement society asking the Board of Trade to join them in the suppression of unsightly bill boards. The matter was discussed and in reply to the question Bradford Hawes of the Board of Selectmen said as far as he knew there was no law to prevent a person from renting his land for that purpose provided said ad came within certain laid down rules of property. The matter will probably come up at the next town meeting.

William E. Thayer for the committee on Clean-up Week explained the work which had been done and hoped to see many improvements by Saturday night.

The subject assigned for the evening was "Boom New England" but up to the time of issuing the notice, owing to an oversight, the committee had failed to secure a speaker and the president got busy with the Boston Chamber of Commerce and they very kindly cancelled another engagement of Jo. Mitchell Chapple, who had just returned from the west and taken up the "New England Boom."

There is but one Jo. Mitchell Chapple as a publisher or platform speaker and on Wednesday night he showed that the gray matter in his head had lost nothing of vitality or versatility as the days have gone by and for an hour and a half he held the closest attention of his hearers as he reviewed the past and reached out into the future.

In speaking of the war in Europe he paid a high tribute to the King of Belgium with whom he toured this country in McKinley's time and long before the crown was placed upon the head of the young prince, and in conclusion said there should be no peace without a complete restoration to Belgium for all of her loss.

Mr. Chapple spoke of the immense growth of the middle west and also the rapid development west of the Rocky Mountains, and drew some sharp comparisons between that growth and the lack of the New England people in keeping pace with the spirit of the age by letting large tracts of available land go to waste for want of proper energy in getting from our soil what it is capable of producing.

The leading idea was more of the getting together spirit among communities, cities and towns are not at work enough on the unit plan, and that with the idea of making the town a complete whole.

Mr. Chapple summed up the present world situation as a new era of the making of Republics among which will be Russia, Germany, Japan and many others and there is no reason why the United States may not be the leading Republic of the world.

ANNUAL DRAMATICS.

South Weymouth Treated To Fine Production of "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

The dramatic treat of the season was given Wednesday evening in Foggs Opera House, South Weymouth, when Miss Annie Deane presented her annual theatricals. A novelty was introduced this year, in that all the parts were played by the ladies of the Old Colony club, who presented the piece so successfully several winters ago.

The cast of characters was as follows: Earl of Dorincourt, Miss Charlotte Craib; Cedric Errol (Lord Fauntleroy), Miss Marion Tirrell; Mr. Havisham, a solicitor, Miss Annie Deane; Mr. Hobbs, a grocer, Mrs. Wm. Wagner; Dick, a bootblack, Mrs. Carl Gridley; Higgins, a farmer, Mrs. George Conant; Thomas, a footman, Mrs. Frederic Bruer; Mrs. Errol (Dearest), Mrs. Walter Field; Miss Elsie Maertons; Mrs. Carlton Barnes.

The acting of everyone was perfect. Rarely, if ever, has an amateur performance approached so closely to a professional production as did "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

Miss Deane deserves much praise and commendation in giving the people of South Weymouth an opportunity to witness a performance of Wednesday evening's calibre. The ladies who generously gave their time and energies to the production also deserve special attention. Between the acts, the Old Colony orchestra, under the leadership of Charles Klingman, rendered several selections, which won much applause.

TOWN BUSINESS.

Selectmen's Business and Other Departments of Work and Expenditures.

At the Monday meeting of the Selectmen permit was granted the North Weymouth Yacht club to give public entertainments at their club house.

Permit was granted the Weymouth Choral Society to give a public concert at Foggs Opera house Sunday night the 14th. A. C. McKinnon was granted an Inn Holders license for the Bay Side Inn at North Weymouth.

Charles J. Kegan was granted an Inn holder's license for the Commercial house East Weymouth.

Four additional licenses were granted and one additional billiard and pool license.

A. L. Rousseau was granted permit to give a moving picture show in or near Jackson square in the interest of Carnival week.

Geo. E. Crawford was given a permit to dig claims on the Weymouth shore front.

It was voted to remove the fountain at Commercial square to the curb stone enclosing the Washington school house lot.

The board approved six notes of $10,000 and due Nov. 8th on account of incoming taxes. Rate $2.92.

Frank E. Loud of the building committee for the new school house in Ward 5 asks for a joint meeting of the Selectmen, Assessors, Town Council A. P. Worthen and Civil Engineer R. H. Whiting to consider the matter of the land valuation as to the relation of a certain part to the whole.

NOLAN—BROPHY.

Chief Operator at Weymouth Telephone Office Answers Call From Cupid. Melrose Phone Girl Bride of Fred V. Nolan.

Cupid has been working in the Weymouth phone exchange! A few days ago the lad with the arrows shot Fred Nolan and last Sunday in the parochial residence of St. Mary's Catholic church in Melrose East Weymouth's popular night chief operator was joined in holy wedlock with Miss Mary A. Brophy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Brophy of 62 East Foster street Melrose.

Rev. Father Carney, pastor of St. Mary's church in Melrose performed the ceremony. Miss Francis Bowie of Melrose was maid of honor and Patrick Donahue of Braintree was best man.

The bride is one the most popular and best known young ladies of Melrose, of a genial disposition and pleasing personality she is immensely liked by all who know her. For several years she has been an operator in the Melrose exchange.

Fred or "Sav" as his host of friends know him is one of the best known and best liked young men in East Weymouth. Famously all through this section for his ability as a basketball player he is probably the finest basketball player ever produced in East Weymouth.

For several years past Fred has been night chief operator at the Weymouth exchange and no operator on the South Shore is considered the peer of "Sav" as an operator or a grand good fellow. He has always resided in Central square being the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Nolan.

For the present Mr. and Mrs. Nolan will reside with Mr. Nolan's parents in Central square. The host of friends of the newly married couple wish them the best of luck in their journey through life as man and wife.

Who Will Follow Suit.

John O'Rourke of Neck street has given to the pupils of the Athens school the use of a plot of land on Green Street for the purpose of gardening this summer. Suitable teachers will be on hand to instruct the children how to plant the vegetables how to care for them and how and when to harvest. This is certainly a fine opening for the children of this village and they will be given a chance to learn a different branch from anything they've learned before.

King's Daughters Union.

The annual meeting of the King's Daughters Union will be held in the parlor of the Congregational church, East Weymouth Wednesday May 17 at 7.30 o'clock P. M.

TUFTS LIBRARY.

Art Exhibition.

The pictures from the Library Art Club now in the Reading Room illustrate the art of Verona.

The set is entitled Verons, No. II and it will remain until May 22.

SCORE HIT IN BLACKFACE.

Minstrel Show Last Evening by Weymouth Council 729, K. of C. Gala Event of Season.

With every seat occupied, standing room in any part of the hall taken and hundreds clamoring for seats or admittance, the grand minstrel show of Weymouth Council 729 Knights of Columbus Glee club was held in Bates' opera house, Weymouth Landing, last night. For many days the house had been sold out and long before the hour of beginning last night all the available standing room was gone.

The name of the show was "Town Topics," arranged and produced under the personal direction of Joseph J. Ecker. The tambos and specialty features were directed by James McDonald.

When the curtain went up the scene showed a beautifully arranged and decorated stage, with the circle made up of the following artists: Interlocutor, John F. Reardon; End men: Joseph Nolan, Thomas Coleman, James McDonald, Malcolm Gillis, Frederick O'Brien and Milton Richmond. In the chorus was E. Cross, J. Conroy, J. Fern, J. Ronan, W. Fitzsimmons, B. Heffernan, J. Deslauries, B. Smith, J. Lyons, A. Sheehy, J. Kelly, L. Conroy, A. Heffernan, B. Gaughan, J. MacDonald, H. Martin, P. Santacrose, B. Higgins, J. Shaun, J. Fennell, F. Daley, W. Wall, R. News of The Lodges About Town.

Delegates of the Dorothea L. Dix Tent 32 Daughters of Veterans were present Sunday at the Memorial services held in the Faneuil hall by their order and similar organizations in honor of the unknown dead of the Civil War. There were 121 beautiful floral tributes piled in the center of the historic hall. Monday the flowers were spread on the waters down the harbor in honor of the sailor dead of the Civil war. Members of other patriotic organizations were also present at the services.

I. O. O. F. The degree staff of Crescent lodge I. O. O. F. accompanied by several of the lodge members journeyed to Middleboro last Monday night. The local party was royally entertained by the Middleboro lodge and the Crescent lodge degree staff performed the first degree on a class of candidates doing the work in fine style.

A chicken pie supper was served during the evening. Hollis' jitneys conveyed the local members to Middleboro. A pleasing feature was the thoughtfulness of the boys in arranging for Mr. Farrington of North Weymouth, a member of the Middleboro lodge to make the trip. Mr. Farrington has been without the use of his limbs for some time, but he was lifted into one of the autos and stood the journey in fine shape.

The Degree Staff of Steadfast Rebekah Lodge will hold a whist party in Odd Fellows hall Monday, May 15th, at 2.30. Supper served at 6.30. Members please bring pastry. Regular meeting at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

L. M. C. The Women's Loyal Circle held a supper and dance in Moose Hall on last Wednesday night, upwards of 150 people attending. Their degree team, Mrs. Annie Orcutt, captain; Mrs. Martha Thayer, lieutenant, presented their floor work for approval.

F. of A. Thomas Roche is attending the state convention of Foresters as the delegate of Court Wessagussett F. of A. at Lynn this week. Neil McLeod is the alternate.

Plans have been made by the order for a ladies night to be held on the 29th of May, when the state officers and companions will be guests.

67th May Party.

The 67th annual May party of the parishioners of the Second Universalist society was held in Foggs Opera house last Friday night. Ralph Burrell, Samuel Ware, Roy Sherman, Willard Holbrook and Archie Blanchard had the affair in charge. Dancing was enjoyed.

MAY BASKET SOCIAL.

Clark Union Holds it in East Weymouth Congregational Church.

On Wednesday evening as the guests of the C. E. society of the First Congregational church, East Weymouth, the Clark C. E. Union held a May basket social which was well attended.

At 8 o'clock an entertainment was given by an orchestra composed of Miss Theo Keith, cornet and director; Miss Mary Keith, violin; Miss Mildred W. Newcomb, pianist; and Howard Richards, traps.

A minstrel show was staged by Charles L. Gibson, Stanton A. Newcomb, Everett Sylvester, A. Herman Gardner and Emerson R. Dizer. There were selections by the North Scituate male quartette and readings.

After the entertainment May baskets were auctioned off and the pleasing program was brought to a close by charades given by the Old South C. E. society.

Pastor Russell's Greatest Achievement Coming to Quincy.

What has been conceded an attraction that satisfies the scientific, devout and skeptic, the photo-drama "Creation," is coming to Quincy Music hall for the next four Sunday afternoons. It is considered one of the most elaborate presentations of its kind in the world, and at the present time is being shown simultaneously in practically all the larger cities of the United States.

The purpose of the drama is to arrest the tide of skepticism and doubt as regards the Bible and its Author that is sweeping over the whole civilized world today. This it does by applying the theory that "seeing is believing" and shows that instead of science, history and the Bible being at variance they are marvelously harmonious.

The presentation is made under the auspices of the International Bible Students' Association, is wholly undenominational, so that all may feel free to have the Bible story told to them graphically in "movies." The association is supported by voluntary contributions, which have enabled them to give this notable and elaborate production free in every way to the public. Doors open at 2.15; drama starts at 3.

19th Community Service.

The nineteenth service of a series of 20, which the Congregational church has been giving during the winter and spring, was held at the church last Sunday night before a large audience.

The subject of the address, "Pure Food and Food Values" was given by Miss Annie L. Bennett, head of the department of Industries of the High School of Practical Arts of Boston. This was a very interesting and timely subject and much valuable information was given.

THE CARNIVAL GROWS.

Another Enthusiastic Meeting Monday Night.

The East Weymouth Carnival movement for June 10-17 inclusive, has outgrown the narrow quarters in which its first meeting was held and met last Monday night in Knights of Columbus hall and the attendance was large and enthusiastic.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman, W. M. Tirrell, and the records of last meeting were read by J. E. Mulligan and approved.

The committee on sanitation reported progress, location settled and construction planned.

The committee on a public building reported they had secured the unused Unitarian church and are now planning on its booths and arrangements for exhibits.

Daily details for the week were discussed and, while it is early, absolutely fixed details and much progress was made.

Nearly all of the organizations in the village were well represented and their delegates signified their willingness to join in the movement. Post 58, G. A. R. was represented by Commander Leonard W. Cain. Sons of Veterans, Woman's Relief Corps, Daughters of Veterans, Ladies Auxiliary and other patriotic bodies reported, and it was voted to make "Flag Day," Wednesday the 14th, a specially patriotic day and placed the details in the hands of Post 58, G. A. R., and the public may rest assured the "Old Glory" will be in evidence.

Tuesday was settled upon for the baby parade day and, weather permitting this feature, the first of its kind in Weymouth, will undoubtedly be one of much interest.

The school parade has been scheduled for Friday afternoon and East Weymouth's 800 school children will be in line.

A. L. Rousseau made a very encouraging report for the committee on finances and also on the canvass being made for a souvenir advertising program.

The matter of band concerts and parades was extensively discussed and it was voted to employ the Weymouth band and on Saturday night the 10th to the final wind-up on Saturday night, the 17th, there will be music in the band stand, concerts and parades by the Stetson Shoe or the Weymouth band.

The parade question was not definitely settled but referred to a special committee consisting of Gideon Murray of Crescent Lodge I. O. O. F.; Bartholomew Coughlin of Knights of Columbus; Charles A. Tobin, Ancient Order of Hibernians; George Lamrock, Loyal Order of Moose; Carleton White, Sons of Veterans and two extensive parades may be looked for an auto and a foot parade.

The committee on banners and decorations reported and put their labors in evidence with 500 beautiful pennants to start with and they are in they are in the air.

"Carnival, East Weymouth June 10-17, 1916"

At 10 o'clock the meeting adjourned to Monday evening, the 15th, having first accepted the kind offer of the Loyal Order of Moose to use their hall.

Don't forget Monday evening, the 15th at Moose hall.

WEDS COHASSET GIRL.

Weymouth Young Man Becomes Benedict on Wednesday Evening.

William T. Daley a popular young man of this town and Miss Florence Thompson of Cohasset were married Wednesday evening at the Catholic church in that town. Miss Nellie Noonan of Cohasset was bridesmaid and William Loneragan of East Braintree best man. Raymond Coridan, Edward Keefe and Joseph Crehan of this town were ushers. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the brides parents and many from this town attended. On their return from their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Daley will reside on Foye avenue this town.

King Cove Boat Club Notes.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the King Cove Boat Club held a supper last Saturday evening at the club house. Beans, salads, pies, rolls and coffee comprised the menu. Mrs. Lester Culley was chairman of the committee with the Mrs. Morgan, Miller, Parker, Hayden and Place as assistants. After the supper there was a musical program with vocal solos by some of the members and readings by Miss Lena Jones of East Braintree.

The auxiliary held a meeting at the club house for the purpose of sewing on Wednesday afternoon of this week and the men were invited to supper.

HIS HARP UNSTRUNG.

William W. Raymond Passes On In His 93rd Year.

After several months of extreme exhaustion by the infirmities of age tired nature in William W. Raymond, of East Weymouth, gave out last Saturday night and at the age of 92 years, 9 months and 12 days, he passed on to the land "from whose bourne no traveller returns."

Mr. Raymond was one of 11 children of Deacon Alvah and Susan Bates Raymond and was born on Pleasant street, East Weymouth, on July 24th, 1823. His school life was that of the "Little Red Schoolhouse," of his time and in his native village.

At an early age he showed decided musical ability, and at the age of 16 became a member of the East Weymouth brass band, playing an ophicleide. Subsequently he was a member of the Weymouth band and Bond's famous band of Boston.

At 82 years of age the following was said of Mr. Raymond: "For a man of eighty-two years of age, the subject of this sketch put a veto on the Ostler theory, as he is far from being a subject for extermination. His mental faculties are unimpaired, he is a capital entertainer and is still sought after to arrange band music."

Like his father who was one of the first deacons in the Congregational Church at East Weymouth, William was in at its organization in 1813 and until the infirmities of age prevented, was a constant attendant at the services.

Mr. Raymond was one of the pioneers who blazed the way for Crescent Lodge 82 I. O. O. F. and passed through the various offices and at his death was the oldest Past Noble Grand in Massachusetts, if not in the United States.

Mr. Raymond was not unmindful of his duties as a citizen and was always interested in the affairs of town, state and nation, and while not a seeker for public office, was for 13 years a valuable member of the Board of Assessors and also for some time was on the Board of Selectmen.

Funeral services were held at his late home on Shawmut street, Tuesday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. Dr. Edward Torrey Ford, who eulogized the long and faithful life of the departed.

A quartet composed of Mrs. Franklin P. Whitten, Mrs. W. A. Hodges; Miss Ethel F. Raymond and Miss Susie B. Raymond sang "Abide With Me," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Peace, Perfect Peace."

Crescent Lodge I. O. O. F. was in attendance and its ritual burial service was rendered by N. G. Irving Tirrell and acting chaplain George M. Hoyt.

The burial was at Fairmount Cemetery and the bearers were Fred N. Bates and Gideon Murray of Crescent Lodge and Charles J. South and Edward W. Raymond, two grandchildren of Mr. Raymond.

Weymouth Herring.

After nearly 70 years of ownership by the Weymouth Iron Co., and their successors by virtue of a sale made to the Iron Co. in 1816 and 1817 the Town of Weymouth now comes back to its own, for a time at least, by leasing from the John P. Lovell estate the Herring Fishery.

For a time the Iron Co., carried out the provisions of the sale and Weymouth people derived the same benefits as when the fishery was managed by the town, but for the past few years many of those conditions have been ignored.

The town has now as we have said leased the fishery and placed its management in the hands of Joseph A. Sherman and he has much improved the conditions at the Herring Weir, but for a few days it looked as though herring were afraid of the new management. The conditions, however, were weather and not the management.

The last few days have wrought a wonderful change. The run of herring is large and the river below is full of fish yet to come. Mr. Sherman is carrying out the terms made many years ago and Weymouth people will get Weymouth fish as long as they come up.

ON THE FARM

Subscribe for this paper. This column alone is worth more than $2.00 a year if you have a garden or keep a horse, cow, pigs or hens.

It is about this time of year that the average city dweller begins to envy his country cousin. In the winter he is quite content with his own lot, but as the warm weather sets in his palms begin to itch for the feel of a spade and hoe and his nostrils to yearn for the warm, rich scent of new-turned loam.

Never feed little chicks wet, sloppy food. It is bad enough for mature stock.

Do not let a calf pass its first birthday without being perfectly halter broken.

The milk goat has her place, but the cow will always continue to be the main source of the world's milk supply.

The same rules should obtain now as in summer—to get the cream up as quickly as possible and churn often.

It is simply common sense to know which cows are profitable. Testing is the only way to find out, says Farm Journal.

Plant pole and lima beans four feet apart, rows four feet apart, 2 inches deep. Plant same in the latter part of May.

One thing sure—if your potatoes are scabby in the garden one year you had better not plant any on the same ground another year.

There are several distinct advantages in growing pole beans over the bush varieties, especially where poles can easily and cheaply be secured.

Thin out instead of shortening in a tree when you transplant it. It is a mistaken notion that it is the proper way to cut off all the ends of the limbs.

It is impossible to cheat nature. All the elements of fertility, mineral and nitrogenous, cost money, and if little money is given for fertilizers, we can expect but little good to the crop from them.

The amateur kitchen gardener is apt to overplant; that is, to plant too much of any one seed at a time merely to get rid of the seed. He will go radish-mad in April and then have a lot of tough and “hot” radishes to pull out and throw away.

A garden spot near the house is often more desirable than a plot which is in better tilth but located at an inconvenient distance. A garden which is near the house will receive many a spare hour of care from adults and children which would otherwise be wasted.

Celery growers are being warned again by the department that the use of salts of copper in food products has been officially pronounced injurious to health, and that in spraying celery care must be taken to see that copper is not left upon the celery.

The good dairy cow has a broad forehead, indicating intelligence and a kindly disposition. She has a short thin neck not at all beefy, in which veins are manifest. She is narrow through the front shoulders and thick chested, indicating good lung capacity.

The importance of barn-yard manure as a home source of plant food cannot be over-estimated in a mixed farm management. In a well-regulated rational system of stock feeding it is one of the cheapest if not the cheapest source of valuable manurial constituents.

Bumble foot is caused by a bruise. This may come from frozen ground, or from flying down from a height to a hard-surfaced floor. Often roosts are entirely too high and the force with which the bird strikes the ground injures the foot.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts thru the blood on the mucous surface of the system. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. All Druggists. T.C.

A STORY OF HUNGARY

By EVERETT P. CLARKE

The map of Europe has been changing ever since there has been any historical record. There have been times when changes have been expected that have not occurred. One thing is noticeable—no nation in Europe has thrown off a foreign yoke.

Sixty years ago Hungary was in a position of antagonism to Austria. Louis Kossuth came to the United States, which was in those days the mecca of all peoples who desired to be made free, to raise funds to prosecute a revolution against the other wing of the dual empire. He was treated liberally by the freedom loving American people and returned to Hungary. What became of the money raised at that time I do not know. What everybody does know is that Hungary is still a part of the empire of Austria-Hungary.

I am of Hungarian parentage, but I was born in America. My father was in sympathy with the movement to achieve independence for his fatherland and was a member of a revolutionary society organized for that purpose. This story which I am about to relate he told me when I was a boy.

“The society to which I belonged,” he said, “was organized for the purpose of bringing about a rising of the Hungarian people against the Austrian government. Of course we were a secret body. I determined to learn the plans of the government concerning Hungary, and to do this I offered my services to the prime minister as a spy on the revolutionists, revealing to him that I was a member of a circle whose object was to achieve the independence of Hungary, and I had joined the society with a view to obtaining their plans. I succeeded in winning the minister's confidence and anticipated getting much valuable information.

“The danger in all this was that unless I made known to the circle my intentions I was likely to be considered a traitor to them. If I told them what I was doing I was liable to run against some one among them who was endeavoring to accomplish for the government what I was desirous of doing for the circle. If so I would be immediately arrested and shot by the government.

“I concluded to place in the hands of one member of the circle—Shimsky was his name—evidence to prove that I was working in the interest of Hungary, but charged him not to produce it till I should call upon him to do so. Indeed, it consisted of papers in a sealed package the nature of which he did not know. He and I had long been friends, and I felt sure that he was true to Hungary.

“Through the prime minister I learned just what provision had been made by the government to suppress any rising on the part of Hungary and, more than this, what prominent Hungarians were playing false to the Hungarian cause. Then suddenly I met with a misfortune. Shimsky was arrested as a plotter against the Austrian government. And a second misfortune followed immediately. A few days after Shimsky's arrest our society held a meeting, and I was not only accused of being a traitor, but of having given the information that had caused his arrest.

“It happened that another member of the circle was playing the same game I was playing. One Raminye, while pretending to be working in the interest of the government, had learned that I was in the confidence of the prime minister. Raminye at once reported the matter to the society. They constituted themselves a court to examine into the charge.

“The evidence of my true position had been given only to Shimsky, and he had been arrested and his papers confiscated. If he had placed mine with the others I was surely lost. I could not convince the circle that I was true to them, and the government would have conclusive proof that I had been a spy on their movements. If I escaped the circle I would fall by the government.

“All I could say to the circle was that I had deposited proofs of my loyalty to Hungary with Shimsky. If the government was not in possession of them and they could be found, I was saved. If not, the government would put me out of the way.

“The circle at once considered what they had better do, but I was not permitted to hear their deliberations. They decided that there was a strong probability that the government had the papers I had deposited with Shimsky, that I would be arrested and my arrest would be very dangerous to the society. I was called into the room where the deliberations had taken place and handed a sum of money which I was told I was to use in immediate flight.

“I left the meeting within ten minutes of receiving this command and, in disguise, made my way into Italy. There I felt comparatively safe, but Austria then held northern Italy, and until I had left that country I was not sure of immunity from arrest. I was bound for America and learned when I reached this country that no one accused of a political offense could be extradited.

My father married an American and never returned to Hungary. I never heard him say whether the papers he had deposited with Shimsky fell into the hands of the government or not. Since he had fled the country the government was not likely to reveal what knowledge of him it possessed.”

Travel Sketch.

BY BRADFORD HAWES.

My Dear Brother:

I arrived in Los Angeles at one P. M. of Saturday, August seventh. One of the first things which impresses the traveller upon arriving here is the large number of hotels scattered throughout the city. Many of these are large eight to twelve story buildings of elaborate construction.

It seems a veritable city of hotels and one at first wonders how they make it pay to run them all, and if there is indeed a tide of travel which calls for so large an amount of hotel accommodations. The phenomenal growth of the city in part furnishes the answer.

In the year 1860 the city numbered four thousand five hundred inhabitants. Today its population is claimed to be close to six hundred thousand. Then there is the great volume of tourist travel which is at all seasons—and especially in the winter—surging across the continent to enjoy the mild and sunny climate which no other section of our land can afford in such perfection as California, and especially that part of it of which Los Angeles is the center. In a little publication which was given me by the conductor upon the Santa Fe train is the following passage: "Why does Los Angeles grow at such an astounding rate? What is there back of her to support such a city?" The answer is, "The whole United States is back of her and supports her. Just so long as people grow rich in the United States, just so long will Los Angeles grow. People who can afford it prefer to live there and in their living they create work for thousands of others." Her climate is her chief asset and of this she claims to have a monopoly. There may however be a difference of opinion in regard to this, at least, as far as the summer is concerned. I will quote a remark of a waiter who served me at a hotel in Salt Lake City, whom I encouraged to be somewhat loquacious. He told me that he went to Los Angeles winters as the climate of Salt Lake City was then too cold to suit him, but he always returned in the spring. He said Salt Lake City had three things which could not be beat: the air, the water and the whiskey. I concluded he was right as to the first two, as to the third, I am no authority. Aside from her climate asset, Los Angeles is the center of a rich agricultural section. Broad fields of alfalfa and sugar beets abound and an abundant supply of choice vegetables which find a ready home market in this and the neighboring cities. Oranges, lemons, olives, and English walnuts and almonds all thrive here and are grown on large areas; to say nothing of the beautiful and varied growth of ornamental trees and palms.

It was late in the season to see the flowering shrubs and rose bushes in their glory, though some of the late blooming varieties were still blossoming.

Los Angeles is the center of the oil producing section of California and has also extensive mining interests, not only in that state, but in Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico, which contribute largely to her wealth. The city is lavishly lighted on its principal streets with elaborate clusters of electric lights. As the growth of the city threatened to be limited by shortage of its water supply it has reached out two hundred and twenty-five miles across mountains and desert to the Owens River and has undertaken to bring to the city by gravity system at an estimated cost of $23,000,000 a supply of pure mountain water sufficient for a city of two million people.

If one is looking for any evidence of the wild and woolly west, he will have to seek it elsewhere than in Los Angeles.

The school facilities are claimed to be excellent. The city boasts a large variety of private institutions of learning in addition to a public school system apparently equal to those of our eastern cities.

The churches are numerous and all of the principal denominations appear to be liberally represented. Thousands of acres of land are held in the outskirts and adjoining the city for park purposes. Some of these parks have been well developed and beautiful, while large areas are still lying in a state of nature.

I should have mentioned that the old Mexican section of the city, where General Fremont first raised the stars and stripes, remains very much as it was before the coming of the Saxon. Excellent facilities are afforded by the trolley car system, not only for reaching all parts of the city, but all the neighboring municipalities as well. One thing which attracts the notice of the traveller from the east is the almost total absence of tenement houses as we know them here. I was informed that ninety per cent of the population are housed in single tenements and there appears little crowding.

I have touched upon the foregoing points as my ideas as to what manner of city Los Angeles is were rather hazy before my visit and I thought yours might also be so.

I think we are accustomed to form our idea of the old Spanish conquistador as being a man of iron, in whose makeup cruelty and rapacity are predominating features. We naturally gain this impression from our literature of his conquest, especially from such books as Lew Wallace's "White God," which I think you have read. The Spaniard probably had the above qualities and yet, he must have had a softer side as is evidenced by some of the names he has left on mountain, valley, stream and town in the southwest. Did you ever chance to learn the full name he gave to Los Angeles? It was, Pueblo de la Reina de los Angeles. (Town of the Queen of the Angels.)

The American hasn't time for such names for every day use and has shortened it to the last two words. Sword and cross and love of gold seem to have been mingled characteristics of the Spanish invaders of America. Having ridden in comfortable railroad trains over much of the country over which for nearly two hundred years he fought and toiled and sometimes starved, and with a tolerably good knowledge of what he endured in his conquest of the southwest, I have concluded that making all allowance for his faults, the world may never know a sublimer indifference to fatigue, suffering and death than characterized these men.

WEARING EVENING CLOTHES.

A Chicago View of the Question From a Masculine Viewpoint.

Citizens of the older towns where it is customary for men of any social pretensions whatsoever to wear formal evening clothes after 6 in the afternoon often reproach Chicagoans for not following this time honored custom. They are never satisfied with the explanations given, because these explanations are rather evasions and do not explain anything.

As a matter of fact, although nearly every Chicago man knows why his "full dress" accumulates dust and sustains moths in the dim recesses of the closet, he does not realize that his reasons are the reasons that consign the glad garments of his fellow men to a similar desuetude. It may be just as well to get together and confess.

If one could make a formal evening dress map of Chicago one could show several small, well defined areas in and about the city where the open faced waistcoat and spicetail coat are necessary, or at least permitted. In the loop, about theaters and fashionable hotels, such garments are worn without misgivings, and in certain narrowly prescribed residential districts one may flit from house to house in the raiment of joy without danger. But if one essays to go from one of these haunts of fashion to the other, except in a taxi, one is likely to run a gauntlet of ribald comment that will leave him a nervous wreck when he reaches his destination.

Our Chicago democracy is very young, newly come into a knowledge of its privileges and enthusiastically hostile toward anything that remotely resembles an assumption of class or caste; hence through the vast tracts it inhabits and that separate the dress suit areas one from another the man who essays a pilgrimage openly in the despised garments of idleness invites reprisals.

If the fashionable men of Chicago who wish to maintain the fashionable tradition, yet cannot afford taxicabs, will get together they may develop enough strength to persuade the traction companies to supply for their evening travel sufficient closed and armored cars, running at appropriate intervals. Otherwise they must take their chances, as other adventurous Americans do.—Chicago News.

Passing of the Musk Ox.

The musk ox is fast following the buffalo to commercial extinction, and its fur will be in a few years as hard to find as a first class buffalo robe is today. The animal is found on the shores of the Arctic ocean in the Mackenzie district, the farther north the better the fur. Eskimos hunt the musk ox, which is very gentle and easily taken. The pelts are shipped by dog team and canoe down to the fur trading posts of the Canadian west. Owing to the distance of the musk ox habitat from civilization, very few skins can be brought down at a time, and the number of robes on the market each season is necessarily limited. Because of the northerly latitudes in which the animal lives, the musk ox has very thick fur. At the base of the long, flowing hair, sometimes forty inches in length, which is the distinguishing mark of the musk ox, there is a thick growth of wool, so that a robe made up from one of these pelts is capable of withstanding any cold.—Consular Report.

A Continuous Performance.

Once upon a time there was a poor and friendless young man, who one day received from an older man a short letter of encouragement and confidence. The young man, not knowing how to express himself, did not answer the letter, but at a critical moment it had such an influence upon him that he took new life and eventually made a remarkable success. Years later he met the older man and said, "If it had not been for the letter you once wrote me I would not now be where I am, but it has always troubled me to think that I never acknowledged it."

"But you have been acknowledging it every day since," said the older man.—Life.

Weymouth Gazette
AND TRANSCRIPT

FRIDAY, MAY 12, 1916

The six percent income tax bill is designed to relieve the heavy tax on real estate and when it becomes a law it ought in a measure to reduce our heavy State tax—but if we go on buying other real estate for playgrounds and boulevards the average real estate and mercantile tax payer will see but little reduction in his tax bill.

Apparently unmoved and unimpressed by the terrible lesson the Peabody school fire taught, the lower house of our Massachusetts legislature has turned down the very admirable bill put up by the Faneuil hall committee, to safeguard the precious lives of our school children, by improved construction in building school buildings. The measure met its fate purely on account of economy, we are informed. If this is the case our representatives are putting themselves in a very poor light—showing as they do, that they put dollars above lives—without doubt it would involve considerable expense. However the safety provisions called for were not excessive and the legislature knows as the rest of us know, that a state law is badly needed to bring pressure on authorities who do not and will not exercise the authority they possess. We hope the measure can be revived somehow. If it goes for naught, Massachusetts has not yet grasped the awful lesson taught by the sacrificing of 21 little lives in our neighboring town a few months ago.

Everyone knew who has followed the notes and replies sent between this country and Berlin the past year, that the last German reply would be found "acceptable" at Washington if it could possibly be so. To the majority the first perusal of the last reply was a distinct shock, inasmuch as the entire note seemed to be extremely disappointing. After a long stretch of almost impudent instruction from Berlin as to the United States duty in reference to the high handed interference of Great Britain in neutral commerce, Germany knows, as no one better knows, that that part of the matter "is none of Germany's business. The officials at Washington are soothed by Berlin assurances that this part of the note and its tone is necessary to please the German populace. Anyhow the demands made by President Wilson in regard to the lawless warfare with submarines, have been granted, but with reservations. If the demands are not kept however the break must come. Berlin seems to realize this, which fact is encouraging. After a year, the German government admits that the German methods of submarine warfare have been governed haphazardly, instead of with regard to the close observance of the well known principles of international warfare. All in all, the last note is disappointing, but since it yields in the main point, it will probably be accepted by the nation as the best way out of a very uncomfortable situation.

WEYMOUTH HEIGHTS

—Mrs. E. C. Swift is spending a month with relatives in Falmouth.
—Rufus Bates is the owner of a new Chevrolet Touring Car.
—Miss Daisy Michelson was entertained over the week end by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bicknell.
—The four young men, namely: Mr. Danson, Mr. Parkhurst, Mr. Shanessy and Mr. Meikel, who occupy the "Propinquon" Cottage at Colonial Point, had as their guest on Saturday and Sunday, Raymond Hurlbert of Spokane, Wash.

—Miss Rebecca W. formerly of Weymouth, has presided over the people of Weymouth Heights with a handsome cement seat, which has been placed on the green of the Square. This makes a great improvement, as well as a convenience for those who wish to rest, and the residents of the Heights feel greatly indebted to Miss Webb for her generous gift.
—The Village Improvement Society held a meeting in the Old North Chapel on Tuesday evening. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Elmer E. Lunt; secretary, E. I. Farrington; treasurer, Lewis Strang. After the election of officers various plans were discussed for improving and beautifying the Heights, and an appropriation was made for the caring of Adams Square and the plot of land at the junction of Commercial and Middle Streets.
—At the Sunday evening meeting at 6.30 o'clock of the Y. P. Christian Endeavour Society the subject will be, "What Does Christ Want Us To Do?" The regular monthly business meeting will follow the prayer meeting.
—Miss Mabel F. Kallach of Medford will be the soloist at the Old North Church on Sunday morning.

Which Do You Prefer?

It is important for reasons of health and practical economy for every housekeeper to ask herself this question:

"Do I prefer a pure baking powder like Royal, made of cream of tartar derived from grapes, or am I willing to use a baking powder made of alum or phosphate, both derived from mineral sources?"

The names of the ingredients printed on the label show whether the kind you are now using or any brand, new or old, that may be offered is a genuine cream of tartar powder, or merely a phosphate or alum compound.

Royal Baking Powder contains no alum nor phosphate.

"Father, do you suppose we could afford to rent that cottage next to Grace and Billy?"

"Huh! Afford it? Why, our garage cost more than the whole house. Have you gone crazy?"

"I don't care what it cost. Grace says it's just like hers and if it is I want to live in it."

"Well for the love of - say! May I ask what is the matter with this simple, unpretentious, little hundred thousand dollar dwelling?"

"You may ask, and it will give me great pleasure to tell you. I haven't a decent floor in the house. My wall paper and hangings are old fashioned. Most of my lighting fixtures are loose or too tight. My old gas stove is about as efficient as a kerosene lamp. And father! The hot water service that Grace has! You know yourself that we don't have hot water before nine any morning. There's never enough for the laundry, and as for getting hot water at night, we might as well be living in a tent. And to think that all Grace has to do to get a cupful or a hundred gallons of steaming hot water is to turn on a faucet any time of day or night!"

"How does she do it?"

"They have a Ruud Automatic Water Heater connected up directly with the water and gas pipes. She never gives it an instant's thought or attention. It's the same as having hot water piped into your house like gas."

"Well, why don't you get one?"

"Oh! thank you. I'll order a Ruud in the morning."

The Chewing Gum Man Out For An Eighteen Hole Drive in New England.

From Bangor Maine to Burlington Vermont and the Long Island Sound to the White Mountains the chewing gum man is rampant. He has settled down on all of New England like a deluge. His sugar coated oratory fills us with delight and the perfume of his mint-laden personality permeates the air.

He has a line of Chiclet Chatter which is calculated to put a stop to all the war talk and clear up the Mexican situation over-night. His ultimate mission is to drive indigestion and dyspepsia into the Atlantic ocean.

Before the American Chiclet Co., the largest chewing gum producing combination in the world, turned him loose upon New England, 64 strong, the chewing gum man was schooled in the highest branches of the art of gum selling. His class-room was the Metropolitan Life Tower, under the big clock of historic Madison Square, New York, where are located the executive office of America's famous chewing gum kings.

For months he was drilled for this drive upon New England. There is a captain for each squad of four privates and the orders from headquarters are not to return until they have planted 150,000,000 chiclets between the Hudson Valley and the Canadian Frontier.

In the course of this mammoth campaign the chewing gum man will hammer in the new trade mark of the American Chiclet Co., which was recently re-organized by Darwin R. James, Jr., of New York, one of the best known of the younger generals of modern American merchandising.

Silas B. Adams is the vice-president; Thomas Adams is Chairman of the Board of Directors. Other directors are Mr. James J. D. Adams, George H. Worthington, Adam P. Leighton, H. N. Adams, Warren S. Hayden, Silas B. Adams and C. V. Smithers.

The sixty-four salesmen who are now scattering the message of Chiclets throughout New England expect to effect a complete distribution among the retailers within five or six weeks. Although the American Chiclet Co. manufactures nearly one hundred famous brands of chewing gum this campaign is concentrated upon Chiclets, the candy coated gum which retails at five cents for ten pieces packed in a box.

All orders will be taken for the wholesale dealers, who will make the deliveries. In addition to taking orders, these salesmen will distribute new cut-outs and window cards and acquaint the retailers with the details of a monster newspaper, magazine and out-door advertising campaign which is to follow throughout the summer. The American Chiclet Co. has made arrangements to use large space in nearly two hundred New England newspapers during the next two months.

The founders of this company, which operates ten factories in the United States and controls thousands of acres of gum producing lands in Mexico, are the oldest chewing gum makers in the world.

"The names of Adams and Beeman" says President James, "have been the symbols of pure, delicious gum for generations. Chiclets are backed by the world-wide reputation of these and the other great chewing gum houses which go to make up the American Chiclet Co. We are featuring Chiclets in New England this season because they have met with high favor among refined patrons of chewing gum. New England is now the playground of the highest class of American travelers and when they arrive this summer we know they are going to look for the gum that goes with the luxurious limousine and touring car. A dainty Chiclet relieves the monotony of the long motor ride. It is the relish of the road."

AUTOMOBILE RECOVERED.

Car of J. H. Bates of East Braintree Found Stripped by New Bedford Police.

The automobile which was stolen from Mr. J. H. Bates, of Claremont avenue, East Braintree, one morning last week was found Sunday in the woods outside of New Bedford. The New Bedford officials say that the machine had been stripped of everything that could be removed and that it was identified by papers in the car. The theft of the machine was most daring as it was chained in the garage and the thieves had to force an entrance and file the chains.

Score One for Sandy.
Pat and Sandy were discussing the merits of their respective regiments, and each one was of the opinion that his own was the best. "Why," said Pat, "when our colonel is dismissed he says to the officers, 'Fall out, gentlemen!'" "That disna count for much," replied Sandy. "Gin oor colonel wis ta say that, a' the regiment wad fa' oot."

LOSE TO BROCKTON.

Weymouth High Shut Out 3 to 0 in First South Shore League Game. Local Nine Plays Great Game.

In spite of the fact that they outthit and outplayed the Shoe City team, the Weymouth High School baseball team lost its first South Shore league game to the Brockton High nine on Walkover field Campello last Friday afternoon, by the score of 3 to 0.

Dwyer was on the mound for Weymouth and pitched a fine game. Kelleher pitched for Brockton and was hit hard but received fine support. Hiatt, Curtin, Captain Eddie Condrick and Dwyer excelled for Weymouth. Mongeau, the Shoe City team's new shortstop starred for the winners.

Following Are a Few of the Items Which Appeared in the Gazette Years Ago This Week.

TWENTY-ONE YEARS AGO.

The Quincy and Boston electric road have added several new open cars, of improved make and larger size than last year's new cars, to their rolling stock.

The boys of the North High school will contest in a series of athletic contests with the South High school tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon at the fair grounds.

The people of Weymouth Heights say they want a five-cent fare to Braintree and people at East Weymouth also want a five-cent fare to Quincy, and are waiting for the decision very patiently.

Hayward Bros., carpenters and builders, of East Braintree do not need any recommendation to the people of this locality. They carry a card in this paper by the year and persons wishing work in new construction or repairs may well look up their ad, and speak with them.—The ad. is still here and so are the Hayward Bros.

The question just at present is: Where is the enterprise which will water Broad street from Shaw's Corner to Commercial square during the hot and dusty season? It is estimated that it will cost about $500. The Quincy and Boston electric road with their accustomed liberality, offer to give $100 toward the object and a little push on the part of one or two good solicitors would secure the balance. Who will do the pushing?

EIGHTEEN YEARS AGO.

The frost of Monday night did considerable damage to the plants in some gardens in this vicinity.

The universal inquiry for the past few days has been, will we have a water cart on the road this summer? If so it can not be put on too soon.

Dewey's victory was celebrated in an up-to-date manner in this part of the town, North Weymouth, Saturday afternoon. Bells were rung, and bombs and fireworks were in order after sunset.

Officer Fitzgerald is around looking up delinquent poll tax payers. The amount is now $3.75. There are several of the warrants which have been placed in his hands that he will find difficult to serve as the parties have been dead for several years.

WHY WOMEN SUFFER.

Many Weymouth Women are Learning the Cause.

Women often suffer, not knowing the cause. Backache, headache, dizziness, nervousness.

Irregular urinary passages, weakness, languor—

Each a torture of life. Together hint at weakened kidneys. Strike at the root—get to the cause.

Quickly help the kidneys if they need it. No other remedy more highly endorsed than Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here's convincing testimony from this locality.

Mrs. J. J. Higgins, 18 Canterbury street, E. Weymouth, says: "My back was very lame and weak and I had dizzy attacks. My kidneys acted too freely at times. Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to fix this trouble right up, so I say a good word for them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Higgins had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

JUST LOOKING ROUND

By Observer.

Clean up and paint up.

Have you enjoyed a ride on the open cars this week?

Let's hope our new street superintendent will have Lincoln square attended to.

Read the ads in this issue, then patronize Weymouth stores.

The passing of Weston A. Cushing removes a "prince among men" from the East Weymouth community.

The Old Colony Driving club is away to a good start for the season.

Plans are maturing for the big East Weymouth Carnival in June.

Who said that Billy Burke, the Middle street man, had been struck dumb?

The yachting, swimming and summer cottaging season is most on us. Wonder if the high cost of gasoline will keep many motor boats ashore this season.

Whist parties, dances and moving pictures seem to be drawing the crowds these nights.

Congratulations Freddie Nolan.

Brush fires this Spring have not been as plentiful as in other years. Guess our able fire apparatus has scared the careless ones into their senses.

Here's a tip for Weymouthites. Last Saturday morning Chief Billings of the Quincy fire department had a man in court for having a bonfire without a permit. The man was fined $10. Better get a permit if you want to burn rubbish. It's free and it may save you ten.

Don't kick about the tarvia—you don't want the dust all summer do you?

Crescent lodge, I. O. O. F., reported a fine trip to Middleboro lodge last Monday night.

If you do plumbing, look up the law and follow it. An East Weymouth man paid ten dollars in court last Monday for his failure to observe the law.

Get ready for Memorial day. The Vets need your help to assist in observing the decoration day services.

Test you have forgotten—this is clean-up week. Clean up, dig out, paint up and rake up now.

I am told that E. I. Martin of Commercial street, has the blackest and smartest cat in town. "Peter" is very fond of phonograph music but somehow cannot and will not stand the high tenor notes. When one record is put on with a high tenor note, this inky cat just leaps onto the machine and throws the needle out of commission with his paw. He will however stand for Verdi, futurist music and old time melody.

PASSED HIM ALONG.

Sothern Thinks He Was the Most Dandied Baby in America.

I have been nursed on more knees than any other baby in America. While he was a baby and when of my father generation were yet alive I would constantly meet elderly people, male and female, who would exclaim, "Why, I nursed you on my knee when you were a baby." Old Caldoock, Mrs. Walcott, Joe Jefferson, Stoddard, William Warren, Mrs. Vincent—I could name a thousand in public and private life whose knees had accommodated me.

From knee to knee I would seem to have hopped as birds from bough to bough. I must have reposed upon as many bosoms as did Queen Elizabeth on four post beds. Whether I was nursed thus because I was either beautiful or good or because the last good Samaritan desired to hand me on rapidly to the next, history saith not.

Perchance my mother, in her busy life at that time, had constantly to say to the bystanders, "Here—hold the baby!" while she ran to take up her cue at rehearsal. The infant would have to be controlled by an alien hand, while "Ride a cockhorse" and "Pat-a-cake, baker's man," may have been sung in my ear by many an unwilling nurse.—From "My Remembrances," by Edward H. Sothern, in Scribner's Magazine.

AUDIENTES ARE FICKLE.

It Doesn't Take Much to Spoil a Fine Scene or a Speech.

One of my favorite fancies is of an audience composed of the elect of the ages, with Socrates, Homer, Sophocles, Demosthenes, Praxiteles, Cicero, Horace, Dante, Moliere, Milton, Goethe, Washington Irving, Ben Jonson, Coleridge, Thackeray and Bernard Shaw in the front row and back of them an assemblage of personages of like degrees listening to William Shakespeare lecturing on "The Sanity of Hamlet."

I can imagine him holding that crowd with a fascinated interest, working upward through increasingly palpitating stages to a volcanic climax. And then in the midst of it I can fancy a tortoise shell cat prowling forth from the wings and as she crosses the stage stealing every eye and intelligence in that crowd away from the speaker, including the attention of Homer, who detects from the rustle that something is happening and who finds himself suddenly possessed with a demoniac desire to get away from the speech.

No audience can resist a cat, a dog, a bat, a bird or any simple diversion. The more commonplace the interruption the more splendidly the audience concentrates upon it.—Victor Murdock in Collier's Weekly.

—The racket after being confined to bed for four weeks.

—Edward Ford of the American Trust Co. is spending a fortnight's vacation with his folks on Raymond street.

—Mrs. Harry L. Cann of Hill street is visiting her folks in Framingham this week.

—Mr. and Mrs. John P. French having passed the winter in Newark, N. J., have returned to their Commercial street home for the summer months.

—Feythorne were received this week by the visiting on June first of Miss Marietta Villanova to Thomas Villanova.

—The wedding of Miss Rose M. Ventre of Washington street to Alphonse Stagliano was announced at last Sunday's Masses at the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

—Arthur Howell of High street left Sunday for Buffalo, N. Y., where he will spend one of the gardens for that city's annual show. Last year "Andy" was the leading batsman in the Canadian league.

—Miss Edith H. Reed of Hillsdale court has come to Newton for a short stay.

—Mrs. Clarence Fitzgerald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Fitzgerald of Hill street, has fully recovered from an attack of bronchitis.

—Evelyn Salsbery of Newark, N. J., is the guest of Antonio P. Denly of School street.

—Fay S. Lincoln of Schenectady, N. Y., is visiting his mother, Mrs. Mabel Lincoln of Commercial street.

—Miss Alice P. Coughlin and Ruth N. Parham in the interests of the New Y. City Aquarium were in town, this week in hopes of bettering their knowledge with our world famous fish, the hermit, but the young ladies were doomed to disappointment for the cool weather has kept the Ron uninhabited by the hermit.

—Mr. and Mrs. James Condon of Boston are now residing in the Lassen mansion opposite the Savings bank. Mrs. Condon's mother, Mrs. William Bartor, lives with them.

—The finance committee of the Visiting Nurse association met with their chairman, Mrs. F. E. Leonard, on Wednesday afternoon and completed plans for a Tag day on June 2nd.

—Miss Burgess H. Spence was hostess at the Monday Night whist club this week. The results of play were favors to Miss W. Birch, James W. Vining and Burgess H. Spence.

—At a meeting of the F. P. whist club on Tuesday evening prizes were given to Mrs. Albert Bowker, Mrs. Joseph Higgins and Mrs. John Silva.

—Many inquiries have been made concerning the flag flying over the fire gutted DeLongue estate on Broad street. Old story may be accounted for in that W. P. DeLongue is now the sole owner of the valuable property and its rebuilding will soon be booming.

—Within the past week Comb. 2 and 3 have answered to still alarms for a fire on Charles street and a midnight grass fire along the railroad tracks north of the Commercial street crossing.

—Dr. Joseph Chase, Jr. entertained the local physicians at his home on last Tuesday night. Social and medical advancement were pleasantly discussed.

—Norman Dizer entertained the Christian Endeavor society at his home on Main street, Thursday evening, the guests of honor being his friend, Lester H. Cushing.

—Basil Warren, formerly of the Clapp Memorial Association, now of the Boston Y. M. C. A., closed an undefeated record season in New York last Saturday evening by winning the National Y. M. C. A. championship in the 175 lb. class in three straight falls: 1st, 8 min., 2d, 10 min., 3d, 10 min., 5 min. Mr. Warren was awarded a gold medal.

—Mrs. H. K. Cushing, who has been visiting in town for the past two weeks, is now home again. All this week and is expected to have the care of a nurse.

—Augustine Cantara died suddenly early Monday morning at the home of his son, Amos Cantara, 108 Middle street, with whom he made his home. The remains were taken to Providence, the funeral services being held at that place Wednesday.

—The entertainment committee of the Southeast Rehoboth lodge 18 will hold a social party at the home of Mrs. Mary R. Ellis, 200 Avenue, Wednesday, May 24.

—The Ladies' Social circle held a business meeting in the chapel of the church on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Elmer E. Leonard presiding. It was voted to hold a series of suppers and socials with entertainment, next fall and winter, also the sum of $100 was voted to the parish committee for parish expenses.

—Mr. Davis of the Bruce-MacBeth Gas Engine Co., Mr. Sanford of the New England Fuse Co. and Mr. Smith and Mr. Bond of the Old Colony Gas Co. were guests of the chief gunner Smith of the United States Naval Magazine at Hingham on the 9th.

—Thieves entered the old Elias Richards house in Washington square a few nights ago and carried off two ladies' gold watches, a gold chain and a silver watch, the property of Miss Louise Richards and a pair of opera glasses belonging to Miss Susan Trufant. The mystery is how the thieves gained entrance as apparently no door or window had been disturbed and in two of the rooms the floors were tracked with mud and on the stairs leading to them there was not a particle of mud.

—Miss Marion F. Low, domestic science demonstrator at the Old Colony Gas company has completed a well attended series of demonstrations and lectures at Portsmouth N. H. Gas Co. for the West Stove company and is now giving demonstrations in Concord, N. H.

—The M. and S. club held a well attended social dance at Pythian hall, Monday evening. DeNels' orchestra, Joseph DeNeil, leader, furnished the music for the occasion.

—The Boston Cash Market Co. at Lincoln square, are out with a new auto delivery truck.

—Mr. Standish, principal of the Pennington school will teach the mathematics and business English classes of the Old Colony Gas company in connection with the National Commercial Gas association. The classes meet every Friday evening.

—John Aldridge of Weymouth drove a party of friends to Hingham on Tuesday evening in his Paige car. The party was the guest of the Hingham Masonic lodge.

—The 25th anniversary of the East Braintree Methodist church was observed Sunday, the principal service being held in the morning with an appropriate sermon by the pastor Rev. E. M. Rugg and the reading of the old records of the society. The Sunday school had special exercises at noon and in the evening a "Mothers' Day" service was held, following which the new officers of the Epworth league were installed.

—Friends of Miss Esther Campbell of Weymouth and John Wilder of East Braintree were very much surprised when these two announced that they had been married since last September. Miss Campbell and Mr. Wilder have been employed by the O. C. Gas Company during the last four years. Miss Campbell resigned her position recently.

—Leo Mann is here from St. Louis, Mo., on a visit to his mother, Mrs. B. J. Mann of Vine street. His brother, Bertram Mann of the same city is expected here Sunday for a few days' stay.

—Rev. and Mrs. F. B. Cressey of Cambridge, former residents, were in town Monday calling on friends.

—Automobilists should be very careful when driving through Whitman square, where they have placed a "silent cop," Joseph Sewell went around the wrong side Saturday, and Monday was assessed $5 in the Abington court.

—A party from the Braintree Board of Trade visited the gas company works on Sunday, May 7. Among them were Messrs. Abercrombie, Crocker, Knickland, Chandler, Shay, and Edward Avery. Messrs. Smith, Lang and Condrick showed the visitors around, explaining the process of the manufacture of gas, etc. Mr. Abercrombie outdistanced all others in climbing the holder.

—Mrs. Russell DeShelmer is home from the hospital and is rapidly regaining her health.

—Mrs. Mary Elizabeth, widow of Jacob J. Richards, died at her home on Front street, Sunday, aged 85, the result of a fall a short time ago. She leaves a daughter, Miss Mary Richards of Milton and three sons, Walter, Howard and Ebenezer Richards of this town. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon and was conducted by Rev. William Hyde, rector of Trinity church of which deceased was for years a member. The interment was at Village cemetery.

—Miss S. Jane Clapp, one of the oldest and best known residents of this place, for many years president of the Ladies' Cemetery Improvement Association, is seriously ill at her home on Front street.

—Hollis Bros. are to move the old Hendrick house to the rear of the lot and build a large cement addition to their garage on Brookside road, and later will also put up a stable on the same lot.

—Louis E. Richards has resigned his position in Boston to accept a position in his father's store at Lincoln square.

—Mrs. Francis L. King is home from a visit to her father in Antrim, N. H.

—Mrs. B. Gleason of Roxbury has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas Sweeney of Franklin street.

—Charles Powers died suddenly at his home on Kensington road, Tuesday night of acute indigestion. He was born in Birmingham, England, 78 years ago, but had resided in this town for many years. He was a wood turner by trade. He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. James Moore and two sons, William J. Powers of this town and A. F. Powers of Malden. The funeral will take place from his late residence Saturday afternoon.

—The last of the union vesper services for the season will be given at the First Universalist church on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Special music has been arranged with Miss Bessie Bates, contralto soloist and Mrs. Emily Hagan, violinist. An interesting address will be given by Rev. Renben S. Smith of the Evangelistic Association of New England.

—Mary Pickford at Bates Opera House May 30 and 31.—Adv.

—Bates Opera House, Ethel May Shorey to-night, (Friday) May 19.—Adv.

—Rev. J. L. Dowson of Brooklyn Pa. will occupy the pulpit at First Universalist church on Sunday. Mr. Dowson comes as a candidate.

—A large 45 horse power auto was being towed up Quincy avenue yesterday afternoon, when near the house of Charles G. Sheppard the tow line broke and the truck backed down the hill at a furious pace through the fence and over the embankment into the yard of the house at the corner of Allen street and Quincy avenue. The man who was riding on the truck jumped just in time to save his life.

—George F. Briggs, who has been in the Massachusetts General hospital for some weeks, arrived home last night.

Trinity Church Notes.

WHEN a reputable institution makes such an unequivocal claim as this, surely you will verify our claims before you spend your money for a new car—for we mean exactly what we say—"the most for the money."

This new Auburn price is low—very low—but you cannot appreciate how low it is until you see what you get for it. The longer you drive this comfortable and reliable car the lower the first cost becomes. For the Auburn is not a cheap, skimpy car, rushed into the market as a one-year makeshift, in order to cater to a low price fad. It is a better car—the best car we ever made after sixteen years successful experience. Built to wear and endure for years. Anybody can build less for less money, but Auburn gives you more for less money—more car, more comfort, more style, more convenience, more room and more wear.

BIG WEEK PROMISED.

Details for Carnival Week Nearing Completion.

At the meeting of those especially interested in the East Weymouth Carnival, June 10 to 17 inclusive, held in the old Grand Army Hall, East Weymouth last Monday night, there was no lack of interest and good progress indicated along most lines.

The committee on a public opening on Monday night, the 12th reported unable to get the Governor, as he will be in Chicago, but efforts will be made to have other state officers, Mr. Tirrell, the chairman, reported complete arrangement for the baby parade on Tuesday and the list of prizes to be awarded.

Wednesday is Grand Army Day and the committee reported plans completed with flag raising on the grounds at Moose Hall and an address by Col. W. W. Castle, and it is only necessary to recall his famous Fourth of July address of two years ago to say it will be one of the leading events of the week, also a band concert in the evening.

The committee on the Exhibition hall have been busy, carpenters and decorators are at work and Cottage street will be the center of East Weymouth during the week.

The committee on detailed program have it nearly completed and our readers may find all the details in our next issue.

SHOWER ON PLEASANT NIGHT.

Miss Elizabeth Hennessey Recipient of Many Beautiful Gifts From Over Thirty Friends on Wednesday Evening.

An event of much interest took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Kelley, of Prescott Lane, East Braintree on Wednesday evening when thirty friends of Miss Elizabeth Hennessey of Broad street Weymouth tendered this popular young lady a utility shower.

The event was a complete surprise to the pleased recipient, who was showered with many beautiful gifts of linen and other useful articles.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with the flowers of the season and during the evening a delicious luncheon was served by Mrs. Kelley assisted by several friends.

The affair was tendered to Miss Hennessey in honor of her approaching marriage to Mr. Edward Houghton of Charlestown.

SENSATIONAL HIT.

Minstrel Show by St. Francis Xavier Parish Scores Grand Success on Last Friday Night.

Officially, Clean-up week was celebrated in Weymouth the week of May 13th, but South Weymouth's real show was on Friday evening, May 19th, when the St. Francis Xavier minstrels "cleaned-up" as no show ever has here in the past.

After an opening chorus of the season's musical comedy song hits arranged by Ralph Hawkes, Bob McCarthy sang his end song, "If you got a little bit," with several encores.

Then came Leo Madden and Bertha Hansen in a captivating specialty with the Quakers and Uncle Sam sharing the honors of the number.

Then came end songs by Fred Tuma, who sang "When It's Moonlight on the Mississippi" and Leo Campbell with "Mississippi Steamboat on Parade."

One of the daintiest numbers of the show followed, Telephone Topics, in which James Gallagher and Grace Merritt sang "Hello Frisco" with a chorus of eight charming misses.

James Madden sang "Alagazam" and after him came the little fellow everyone came to see, Richard Smith.

A youngster of 7 years dressed in a little dress suit and in blackface, "Dicky" brought the crowd to its feet with his dancing and tambo "breaks."

Then followed a real big time act, Jimmy Doudero home again after several years, assisted by "Bunny" O'Donnell the sweet singer of sweet songs. Their act was a riot.

Joe Sullivan as Hans, a Dutch boy made a big hit with his eight little Hollanders.

Frank Hogan sang "Are You From Dixie" and was followed by "Jim" Gilligan with "Loading Up The Mandy Lee", in which a real old fashioned cakewalk by four couples was danced.

"Den Dancing Dandies" repeated their success of last year in fifty patter steps and back and wing dancing.

Bob McCarthy (Hank Dewberry) with four sheriffs contributed to the fun with a rube specialty "On The Old Back Seat Of The Henry Ford" with a real (?) Portuguese peace boat on the stage.

The show closed with a finale "Wake Up, America," during which six girls appeared in white and on the chorus opened out their dresses, displaying an American flag and spelling out the letters W-I-L-S-O-N.

Dancing followed the show until 1 o'clock with music by Cull's orchestra.

JUST LOOKING ROUND

By Observer.

Carnival Week is most here.

Don't get discouraged, you can wear that straw hat in comfort pretty soon.

Got your beach house open for the summer yet? Still rather cold, but warmer weather is on the way.

Watch your step when crossing the street, or one of our town's many hundred autos is likely to run into you.

Looks as if the seashore season is on in full force at Nantasket. 13 drunks were in court at Abington Monday. Anyway, Weymouth can't be blamed for these cases of drunkenness.

While on a trip about town the past week I was struck with the beauty and excellence of the many tulip beds I came across. All the beds were well kept and beautiful specimens of the flower. Front street Weymouth seems to be a miniature Holland with the large and handsome beds on Mrs. W. B. Clapp's estate and others in that section.

The granting of the request for special town meeting for the South Weymouth school question looks to me like a partial victory at least for the opponents of the Tirrell lot. I hope the matter is settled once and for all at the meeting of June 12th.

There seemed to me to be a larger number of auto accidents in this section last Sunday than previously. I am pleased to note that Weymouth was free from any serious mishaps. It speaks well for Weymouth autoists and our police force.

I enjoyed an auto ride through several of our neighboring towns last week and was surprised at the utter lack of regard for the autoist that many of the towns have shown in placing the "go-to-the-right" signs that are being adopted in nearly all the towns and cities in this section. In one town the signs were in the majority of cases set about far enough away from the highway to allow an auto to barely make the turn, in lots of cases, necessary. Some of the signs were in places that made a serious smash-up more probable rather than preventive and in some extreme cases it looked as if the officials put the signs in the worse places possible so as to make life miserable for the auto drivers. In this town the signs are all placed where they will do some good and already have proved their value in making traffic better and safer.

I am told that many from the Weymouths are attending the showing of the photoplay "Creation" under the auspices of the Int. Bible Association in Quincy on Sunday afternoons. Two parts of the presentation have already taken place and there are two more to come. As each part is a separate story in itself more of our citizens should avail themselves of the opportunity to witness this famous picture. The meetings are free and I am told by those in charge that all are cordially welcome.

In my travels about town I hear some criticism of our streets. Let's hold off the criticism now for awhile and give our new street superintendent a chance to show what he can do. Boost, don't knock.

I am told that all of our shoe factories are running on full time and that summer business promises to be the largest of any recent years. This sounds good for the shoe workers of the town. Isn't it nice to come to one of the pretty spots in some part of our town and find a huge homely billboard stuck up, shutting off the beautiful view you once had? I don't think so, do you?

I know that some of the local baseball lovers realize that Weymouth High has a mighty snappy little team this year, but by the attendance at the games I guess some of the National game sports are sports in their own back yard only. Come out and support the team.

The two Totman's had a hot race at the Fair Grounds last Saturday, but the young blood won out. Mr. Totman senior says he can come back though and will prove it some Saturday soon.

The St. Francis Xavier minstrel show last Friday night ranks along with the recent K. of C. show. Both were grand successes.

I am glad to see my friend John Kelly the genial claim agent of the Bay State railroad, out again after his recent illness. Mr. Kelly is far from

WITH THE FRATERNAL ORDERS.

News of The Lodges About Town.

L. O. O. M.

The Loyal Order of Moose, Weymouth Lodge No. 129, observed their third anniversary in Moose Hall, last night with a banquet, entertainment and dance.

At 7 o'clock the large crowd, with ravenous appetites marched to the banquet hall where their alert eyes rested upon the long tables abundantly supplied with roast turkey and gravy, salads, and many other eatables too tempting to remain unmolested. The Loyal Woman's Circle were the caterers and the praise they received was well merited.

Dancing followed interspersed with vaudeville acts consisting of Irvin Landry, reader; Miss May Gordon, fancy dancing and the Haskins Brothers, dispensers of catchy melodies. The Moose Orchestra of four pieces contributed the music.

Lewis M. Beach was the chairman of the committee assisted by Fred A. Beals, Harry W. Vogel, Herbert G. Burrell and George S. Lamrock.

Six candidates were initiated into the lodge at their weekly meeting.

Rev. Dr. Edward Torrey Ford of the Congregational church delivered a very interesting address on "The New Era of Man" as a part of the program for Memorial services held by the Loyal Order of Moose in their quarters on last Sunday afternoon. A large number from the Quincy Lodge joined their local brethren in paying their respect to the departed members. The Moose Orchestra contributed several sacred selections. Mrs. W. G. Philbrook sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and a quartette comprised of Mrs. Franklin P. Whitten, Miss Ethel F. Raymond, Mrs. William A. Hodges and Miss Susie E. Raymond sang "Abide With Me" and "Lead Kindly Light." All present joined in singing "Nearer My God to Thee."

In the morning the degree staff in full uniform was conveyed in automobiles to the grave of Ralph G. South in Hingham Cemetery and to the grave of John A. Kelley in St. Francis Xavier Cemetery placing floral tributes on same while Cornetist W. W. Farrar sounded "taps."

James I. Peers was chairman of the committee assisted by Joseph V. Richards and John J. Rhodes. The memorial ritual was read by George S. Lamrock, dictator; Louis M. Beach, prelate and Frank E. Briggs, secretary, the latter reading the roll-call, with responses by members of the order.

The Social Welfare League of Weymouth held a whist party in Grand Army hall, last Friday afternoon, members and friends occupying 17 tables. Mrs. James G. Hallett, Mrs. Walter H. Thompson and Mrs. John Neil, took the favors at auction bidge, and at straight whist, the favors went to Mrs. Clayton B. Merchant, Miss Catherine Fraser and Mrs. James B. French. The proceeds are to be added to the working fund of the league.

well, but warm weather should help Mr. Kelly a lot towards better health.

I understand that several Weymouthites will march in the big Preparedness parade in Boston tomorrow, either as a member of a business house or of some organization.

Give the florist a chance, order your Memorial Day flowers early.

April showers in the month of May are not the only kind of showers we have noticed. Linen, miscellaneous showers and tin showers are in evidence for the prospective June brides.

TOTMAN JR. LANDS HONORS.

Father and Son Race at Driving Club Matinee.

President S. B. Totman, driving his bay gelding Jack Bingen and his son J. Wendall Totman, behind his speedster Farra, furnished the feature race at the Old Colony Club matinee at the Fair Grounds South Weymouth last Saturday afternoon. It took four heats to decide the winner, the younger reinsman winning, taking the last two heats in 1.10 each.

In spite of the rain of the afternoon over thirty horses started and finished and four of the events were carried to split heats.

Following Are a Few of the Items Which Appeared in the Gazette Years Ago This Week.

TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO.
Messrs. J. F. Sheppard & Sons, of East Braintree, have a fine three masted schooner of 600 tons burden nearly completed, in Boothbay, Me.

Order of protection this new beneficial organization a lodge of which has recently been established in Weymouth has a bright prospect of enlarged membership.

The Weymouth system of sewerage has been advanced a point by private enterprise and if other property owners on Washington street should follow suit, the nuisance of flooded cellars may be greatly abated.—That was only a dream, the sewer is yet to come. Ed.

Bert W. Cushing was surprised last Saturday evening by a visit from a number of his shopmates, it being the anniversary of his twentieth birthday. They brought with them as a token of esteem a gold watch chain and charm.

The poles for the electric lights are going up as rapidly as possible, an occasional blasting of rock being required to secure the needed depth for setting some of the poles. They are delivered by rail and dressed at the station, most of them being straight sticks and making a good appearance on the street lines.

TWENTY-ONE YEARS AGO.
The cold weather of the past week has interfered materially with the run of herring and but few have been taken; on the whole however the catch of the season has been fully up to the average and more have been taken to the pond for spawning than ever before.

Mrs. E. Atherton Hunt has issued invitations to the marriage reception of her daughter, Anne Blanchard to Clarence Parker Whittle, Tuesday evening, June fourth, from eight until ten o'clock. The marriage ceremony will be performed at seven o'clock.

Rev. Dr. A. J. Patterson D. D. of Roxbury occupied the pulpit at the First Universalist church Sunday, and the members of the congregation were greatly surprised at the close of the sermon when he read a letter from Rev. Ira D. Morrison pastor of the church resigning the pastorate.

Preparations are being made for a grand celebration upon the completion and opening of the electric road to South Weymouth. The date is not set but it is thought that by the second week in June everything will be in readiness although the road will be operated before that as soon as possible.

Wednesday morning a woman carrying a babe and travelling bag was obliged, while waiting for a car, to stand for nearly half an hour while the seats were occupied by loafers. When nearly overcome by fatigue she crossed the street and rested by the wayside. Another waiting station is certainly needed at the Center.

People down at Nash's Corner and up on Pond Plain and over on Mosquito Plain and around, thought there was a riot in progress at Columbian square, Monday evening, but it was only the members of the Norfolk Cycle club, cheering their favorites on to victory in the great game between Teams 1 and 3 to decide who should have second honors in the bowling tournament.

THE TEST THAT TELLS

Is The Test Of Time Many Weymouth People Have Made This Test.

Years ago this Weymouth citizen told in a public statement the benefit derived from Doan's Kidney Pills. The statement is now confirmed—the testimony complete. Instances like this are numerous. They doubly prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills. Can any Weymouth reader demand more convincing proof? It's Weymouth testimony—it may be investigated.

B. W. Hewett, 191 Washington street, Weymouth says: "I had kidney trouble and couldn't straighten out. I also had backache and was annoyed by too frequent passages of the kidney secretions. I used two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and the trouble disappeared. At my work I have to bend over constantly and thus far I have had no return of the trouble." The above statement was given on March 24, 1913 and on April 4, 1916 Mr. Hewett said: "I am as enthusiastic an endorser of Doan's Kidney Pills now as ever. Occasionally I use them when a slight return attack comes on and a few doses always fix me up."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Hewett has twice publicly recommended. Foster-McBarn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

An Unfortunate Blunder

By F. A. MITCHEL

When the world war broke out there were the usual quantum of American summer tourists in Europe.

Frederick Jackson was one of these Americans near the seat of war, being at Thun, Switzerland. He made a bolt to get through France to the sea, so that he might embark for home. He was unable to register his trunk any farther than Berne and on arriving at that city began a hunt for it. Approaching a pile of baggage, he saw his trunk—at any rate, it had his initials on it—and was about to claim it when a lady exclaimed:

"There it is! Bring it along quickly. I shall be left."

She pointed to Jackson's trunk, a porter shouldered it and was about to carry it away when Jackson interfered.

"Beg pardon, madam. Are you sure that is your trunk?"

"Certainly. Don't you see my initials on it—F. E. J.?"

"Those are my initials, and I am quite sure that is my trunk."

"Go on, porter," said the lady, and off they went, leaving Mr. Jackson gaping after them. He was about to follow them to regain his trunk when an official pointed to another trunk with the same initials on it and asked if it were not his. Jackson was puzzled. No matter how familiar one is with his trunk he cannot be certain unless there is some familiar mark on it. However, it was evident that there were two trunks with the same initials on them, and Jackson argued that this one was either his or hers. So he claimed it and directed a porter to shoulder it and go for the train.

The episode occurred on Aug. 2, 1914. A week later Jackson crossed the English channel, the vessel having darkened lights to escape German warfare, and landed safely in England. There he waited two weeks for a passage to New York.

When the ship was well out to sea Jackson one morning left his stateroom somewhat peculiarly attired. He had on a ruffled collar, and his necktie was a broad blue ribbon. In the cabin he met a lady in a pair of masculine spats—much too large for her—a man's choker and a blue speckled cravat ornamented with a mosaic pin resembling one Jackson had bought in Rome. The man and the woman stopped and looked at each other with marked interest. Jackson raised his cap politely.

"I believe, sir," said the lady, "that you are the man who claimed a trunk at Berne which I believed to be mine."

"I am."

"Well, the trunk turned out not to be mine."

"I captured a trunk with my initials on it and held on to it."

"Heavens be praised; it must be mine!"

"That scarf you are wearing matches one I own, and the pin is exactly like one I brought from Italy."

"Quite likely. I have been obliged to use some of the articles I found in your trunk. I fancy that ruffled collar you wear is mine, and the ribbon" (she tried to repress a smile) "is the exact color of one I got in Lucerne. I assure you I am very tired trying to make out with a man's neckwear. Look at these enormous spats!"

"I assure you I have found a woman's robe de nuit altogether too cramped. Besides, the workmanship in it scratches me."

"You are very bold!"

"I will apologize if you will assure me that you have not used my own for a similar purpose."

The lady colored, but made no reply.

"I will have a porter carry the trunk to your stateroom and get mine. I will reserve such articles of clothing as I have been obliged to use to be laundered."

"The lady looked uncomfortable."

"Will that suit you, madam?" he asked.

"But what shall I do in the meantime for—?"

"Can't we get the pieces laundered immediately?"

A stewardess was passing. The lady called her and put the laundry question. She was told that to get clothes laundered aboard would be next to impossible and if possible would cost a large sum. A few pieces only would cost a guinea.

"Rather than pay that," said Jackson, with a twinkle in his eye, "I will sleep in embroidery and lace all the voyage."

"But I will not sleep—I mean you shall not sleep in"—She was stalled.

"Then we must change trunks with the articles as they are," said Jackson.

"That's very mean of you."

"I don't see how you can call me mean. At Berne I was about to have my trunk carried to the train when you interposed and had it carried off as yours. Since then I have had to depend upon garments to which I have been entirely unused."

This ended the interview. The lady turned and beat a retreat. Jackson paid an enormous sum to have the articles he had used laundered and sent the trunk with everything in it to the lady's stateroom. He did not receive his own until the end of the journey.

A year from that date when these two were about to start on a wedding tour the groom to be sent some of his clothes to his fiancée to pack in her trunk on the ground that he hadn't room for them. She sent them back in a huff. He laughed.

MEMORIAL DAY.

Post 58 Grand Army of the Republic to Honor its Dead.

Another year has rolled by and once more the living heroes of the Civil War will pay a tribute to the departed comrades. As the years go by the thinned ranks and infirmities of age call for a material change from some of the early day memorial exercises as will be seen by the following outline of the program of Reynolds Post 58.

Next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock by invitation of the pastor, Rev. Fred A. Line, the Post with other patriotic orders, will attend services at the Universalist church, South Weymouth.

On Tuesday, Memorial Day, the Post, Sons of Veterans and invited guests will assemble at Thomas' Corner, North Weymouth, where a line will be formed and proceed to the cemetery where the usual exercises will be held, the column will then proceed to Village cemetery where they expect to arrive at 9 o'clock, thence to the Catholic cemetery with schedule time 9.30; then to Highland cemetery at 10 o'clock; next Lakeview cemetery at 10.30; next Elmwood cemetery arriving at 11 o'clock; Mt. Hope is next in order at 11.30; next and last, Fairmount at East Weymouth at 12 o'clock. This will complete the morning exercises and Grand Army hall will be the next objective point and here the autos which have been in use for the forenoon will be discharged. The remaining exercises and events will be in Grand Army hall and Oddfellows Opera House.

Dinner will be served in G. A. R. hall by the W. R. C. and other organizations and at its conclusion a band concert will be given by Carter's band which has been secured for the day.

The afternoon services will be held in Odd Fellows hall, in charge of Comrade J. Murray Whitecomb, and will be open to the public. Hon. George L. Barnes will deliver the oration; Comrade Waldo Turner will read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address and Comrade Bradford Hawes will read Commander Logan's General Order for the first Memorial Day observance. Music will be furnished by the Band.

TOWN BUSINESS.Selectmen's Business and Other Departments of Work and Expenditures.

The Selectmen are in receipt of complaints in regard to bicycle riding on the side walks and a request for them to post notices in regard to the same. The probabilities are that said notices would amount to as much as those posted in relation to automobiles.

Joseph H. Sherman, manager of the herring fishery, reports 24,000 carted to the pond for spawning and as this is largely in excess of what has been done for a number of years good results may be looked for.

A contract was made with the John Baker Jr. Co. on Monday for 8,000 gallons of oil at 6.9 cents per gallon, to be used for street oiling.

The Mass. Highway Commission have been notified that the bridge on Washington street east of Lovell's Corner is not sufficient for the water coming to it and also that the road surfacing is not satisfactory.

The White Co. from whom was purchased the combination fire apparatus for Ward 3 has been notified that owing to some technical points, which were explained, there are no available funds to pay for the same if delivered and a special Town meeting will be called early in June to consider this and a number of other matters which are now before the Selectmen.

The Lithuanian society of Boston was granted permit to hold a picnic at New Downer Landing on July 4th and the Pearce Orange Men of Quincy for a picnic at the same place on July 12th.

Owing to plans not being completed the petition of the Weymouth Light & Power Co. to locate 1 pole on Commercial street, 8 on Main street and 6 on Eli's avenue has been postponed to June 5th.

Augustus T. Wentworth of East Braintree was appointed as special police on Monday and four additional virtuals licenses were granted.

A. W. Finlay's "Dorchen" was one of the first boats to spread her sails and is always a pretty sight.

The well known cat boat "Bob," C. C. Howland owner, is afloat at her moorings.

The King Cove Boat club is getting its floats in position this week.

The sander boat "Panther" was seen Sunday sailing up and down the river.

Frank Southers' new Class A boat, the "Nutmeg," is in commission.

The Wessagusset Yacht club have removed their floats from their winter quarters at King Cove and are getting them ready for use.

The motor boat "Chic" lies at anchor off the North Weymouth Yacht club ready for service day or night.

Bake Purdy of Hunts hill has bought a 28 ft motor boat.

J. P. Holbrook's "Medea" is seen at her moorings the not yet it commission.

Dening Luxton of Ocean avenue has purchased a 32 ft speed launch.

The North Weymouth Yacht club is planning a number of events for the summer besides the regular Saturday night dances which begin this week. They certainly have a live bunch of members and has been proved, they are not afraid of work for the sake of something doing and a good time for all.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

April 21, 1916.

TO THE BUSINESS MEN OF AMERICA:

I speak your cordial co-operation in the patriotic service undertaken by the engineers and chemists of this country under the direction of the Industrial Preparedness Committee of the Naval Consulting Board of the United States.

The confidential industrial inventory you are asked to supply is intended for the exclusive benefit of the War and Navy Departments, and will be used in organizing the industrial resources for the public service in national defense.

At my request, the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the American Chemical Society are gratuitously assisting the Naval Consulting Board in the work of collecting this data, and I confidently ask your earnest support in the interest of the people and government of the United States.

Weymouth Gazette
AND TRANSCRIPT

FRIDAY, MAY 26, 1916

Hustle for Carnival Week.

Looks as if we were getting our March winds and April showers in May.

Straw hats are not much in evidence yet. Anyhow it gives us a chance to get more wear out of the felts.

Weymouth was fortunate last Sunday, no serious accidents from autos being reported. Let us hope every Sunday will be this way.

The liquor situation in town is the chief topic among many of our townspeople. If these same people will come out in the open and assist the police in getting after this evil perhaps something can be done, but the police or any other organization cannot accomplish any such undertaking alone.

We are receiving many favorable comments on "Travel Sketches" which we have been publishing from the pen of Bradford Hawes and in reply to the question "Can't you continue them?" We would say that while in the nature of the thing there is a limit to any one travel, this particular one is not quite at its end and the readers of the Gazette may look for an article next week on San Francisco.

It was no small task the redistricting committee had on its hands to redistrict the state for councillor, congressional, senatorial and representative districts and while undoubtedly they acted on their best judgment the result seems to be far from satisfactory, but we may get used to it in the ten years of its existence. We of Weymouth will have to form new political acquaintances along the line.

A recent bulletin in the interest of the present administration and the Underhill tariff system says that during its reign our exports have been $2,938,991,332 while the imports have been but $1,408,673,563, a balance in our favor of $1,535,318,409. On the face of it this may look well but the real cause of the change is not stated. To the war in Europe may be traced the difference. We have been cut off from many foreign products on which we had depended and this has added largely to our high cost of living and our exports have been increased by the large quantity of war munitions and bread stuffs which have gone abroad.

In spite of the cold weather thus far, it can't be very long before the big beach season will be in full swing. In regard to the beaches in this section, we wonder how many of our townspeople realize what a prominent part each year our shore plays in the summer season crowds. Many hundreds of local and "city" people flock to our shores for the summer and it will pay our citizens to take a trip to the North Weymouth section some warm day this summer and see the activity in every line there. North Weymouth is booming lets start booming the whole town.

Next Tuesday is Memorial Day and Practical Economy

Baking powders made from alum or phosphate may be bought for a trifle less than Royal Baking Powder, which is made from cream of tartar, derived from grapes.

Alum powders are not only cheap, but they differ greatly in leavening power.

If a cheap baking powder is used for a fine cake and the cake turns out a failure there is a waste of costly materials worth more than a whole can of the cheap baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder produces the finest food, and its use therefore, results in an actual saving.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.
New York

we hope Weymouth citizens will do all in their power to assist the very few remaining veterans of the great Civil War and others in charge of the Decoration Day exercises, in properly observing the day, which means so much to those brave and heroic men, who fought in the long, bloody war of fifty years ago.

Once more in regard to billboards. An advertising firm has erected several huge billboards in some of the most prominent parts of our town. While we probably haven't had a look at all of these billboards the past week, some of them are a disgrace to billboard advertising besides being a great disgrace to our town. The boards in question haven't been taken care of, the last signs posted on are falling off and the signs in general on these boards look like a "cut up" puzzle we played with when we were younger. If we must have billboards can't we have decent looking ones at least. Lets have the billboard question come up at the next Town meeting, which by the way isn't very far off.

Miss Ellen E. Fennell, Dead.

The untiring and unwavering devotion of brothers and sisters, who for a number of years have ministered to a suffering sister, were of no avail and death relieved the sufferer, Ellen E. Fennell, last Saturday morning and the tired form was placed at rest in the music room which she loved at her home, 651 Broad street, East Weymouth.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at the Immaculate Conception church. Rev. Cornelius I. Riordan was celebrant of solemn high mass of requiem; Rev. Dennis P. Crimmins, deacon and Rev. James Slaney, sub-deacon. Music was by the church choir, assisted by Mrs. Benjamin Heffernan, Miss Nellie F. Noonan, organist.

The burial was in the family lot at St. Francis Xavier cemetery and the pallbearers were Peter F. Hughes, Thomas J. White, Augustus Conathan and James A. Knox.

MRS. MARY J. COX DEAD.

North Weymouth Resident Laid At Rest In Randolph.

Mrs. Mary J. Cox widow of Henry M. Cox, died at the home of her daughter in Haverhill Saturday May 20. Mrs. Cox was born in Boston April 23, 1840. Boston and Randolph have been her places of residence until about 6 years ago when she came to North Weymouth to live. Always active, bright and cheerful and in perfect health up to four weeks before her death.

Funeral services were held at her late home Tuesday May 23rd at 11 A. M. Rev. H. L. Howard of Randolph officiating. The Puritan Male quartette of Brockton sang "Crossing the Bar", "One by One" and "Nearer My God to Thee". Quantities of beautiful flowers signified the love and respect of her many relatives and friends. Mrs. Cox leaves three children Chas. H. Cox of Detroit, Mich., Oscar F. of North Weymouth and Boston, Mrs. Franklin Woodman of Haverhill, also five grandchildren and four great grandchildren. The burial was in the family lot at the Central cemetery Randolph.

The Claim on Gold Crag

A Romantic Tale of the Gold Fields of Alaska

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Jack Duncan put his hand into Stowe's large grasp with the instinctive feeling that here was a man who would not only be a partner, but a friend as well.

"Glad to see you, Duncan," boomed Stowe's deep voice as he wrung the new arrival's hand. "I received Henshaw's letter from Seattle, and he told me to look out for you. You can share this cabin with me if you want to. Houses are scarce in Dawson just now, and you'll want to look around. There's a spare bunk in the corner yonder. Dump your stuff into it and sit down while I cook supper."

This was Jack Duncan's introduction to Alaska and Dawson City in particular. He had thrown up his position in a San Francisco bank to try his fortune in the Klondike, and back home Beth Terry was waiting patiently for him to make a lucky strike and return to her so that they could buy a ranch in southern California and live happily ever after. That was lovers' planning, of course. In reality Jack had that very moment arrived in the great gold center of the northwest after two months' travel, with a brief stop in Seattle to visit an old school friend, Henshaw, who sent him on his way rejoicing with a letter of introduction to Brad Stowe of Dawson City.

"You'll find him the biggest and best chap you ever met. He'll stand by his friends through thick and thin, Duncan. He made a pile out here and lost it again—gambled it away in a night. He's looking out for another good claim, and I believe he'll get it too. He has luck, they say, in everything except love. Some girl turned him down and sent him scotching into the wilderness," Henshaw had said those words in parting from young Duncan, and Jack had found that everything he had said in praise of Brad Stowe was true.

Jack used to sit opposite him at the little table, eyeing the great golden bearded giant and wondering what sensible girl could ever refuse to marry him. Of course he always excepted Beth Terry, for Beth loved Jack Duncan and therefore was beyond consideration where Stowe was concerned. All through the short, cold days and the long nights brilliantly illuminated by the flaming tongues of the aurora borealis Jack worked and waited and dreamed of the fortune that was to be his.

Day after day he set out with his prospecting kit and his dog sledge to return at night weary and discouraged at his failure. Always Brad Stowe encouraged him to renewed effort.

"There's bound to be a stampedee pretty soon, Duncan," he would say. "There was a rumor yesterday that Jennings had struck it on his claim at the very edge of Gold Crag. If that's I've always had good luck in the Klondike," he ended, with a bitter smile.

Jack guessed that the big fellow was suffering from his old heart ailment, and he changed the subject to the less personal, so that when bedtime came Stowe was his old cheery self again.

Jack wrote a letter to Beth Terry that night and in it he told her all about Brad Stowe and his troubles. It was a relief to the boy to open his heart to the quiet, gray-eyed girl back home. He wondered how he had ever existed before Beth Terry and her mother came to San Francisco from New York. His letter took on Stowe's optimistic tone. "I'll soon be home, girlie," he wrote, "and I can see that little ranch near San Diego coming nearer all the time."

He was awakened shortly after midnight by a confusion of voices and the sharp bark of dogs, as several sledges passed the cabin. Brad Stowe heard them, too, and he was out of bed and pulling on his clothes with furious haste.

"Get into your clothes, Jack," he called to his mate; "there's a stampedee to Gold Crag—Indian Joe just yelled it in my window. I'll harness the dogs while you dress and make some coffee. Rustle, now, it's the chance of your life!"

Jack rustled, and in half an hour the two men had swallowed steaming cups of coffee and, wrapped in furs, were speeding up the trail toward Gold Crag in far pursuit of the first stampede.

"We'll never make it," sighed Jack, and he shouted the words to Stowe, whose sled was in the lead.

"I know a short cut, Jack," yelled Stowe over his shoulder, and he pointed to the left, where his dogs were leaving the trail and breaking through the untrodden snow of the mountain-side.

Jack followed him, and presently he looked up and saw the beetling brow of Gold Crag almost above him. Stowe and his outfit had turned again and were reaching up a narrow gully that seemed to pierce the mountain, but it sloped up gradually and narrowed to almost a footpath.

Both men left their sledges and faced each other.

"It's nip and tuck now, Jack," said Stowe hardily. "I've led you all the way up here, and now, man, I'll give you an even chance for the claim. We've beaten the others by a mile, but we've got to race some more. Will you try it, or are you all in?"

Jack was panting heavily. Although he had grown stronger and more muscular in the free life of the north, the race was telling on him. Now, in the brilliant light of the aurora, his face looked haggard beneath his fur cap.

"Sure, I'll race you," he panted heavily.

Stowe observed him keenly. Suddenly the light faded from his eyes, and his mouth took on grim lines.

"There's a girl back home—there?" he asked brusquely.

"Yes, Beth—Beth Terry—my girl," he said.

"Beth—Terry?" echoed Brad Stowe, stepping back and surveying the young man with burning eyes. "Beth Terry of New York?"

"Yes," admitted the surprised Jack. "You are engaged to her?" asked the other heartily.

"Yes; she's waiting for me to make good. Let us go on, Brad. We'll lose out on this," urged Jack anxiously.

"Very well," said Stowe wearily, and together they trudged on up the narrow defile until they reached the open tract before the Jennings claim.

"It's half a mile beyond, there by the broken pine tree," said Stowe over his broad shoulder. He was leading the way by a few feet, and Jack was trudging after him, spiritlessly, scarcely hoping to beat that long, strong stride of his mate's.

Within a hundred feet of the coveted goal Stowe suddenly turned and put his hand on Jack's shoulder.

"I'm out of it, lad," he said quietly. "Yonder is the promised land—go to it!"

"No, no. How about you?" gasped Jack. "You're the winner; go ahead, Brad—I'm not a baby."

"I'm not doing it for you, Jack," said Stowe grimly. "I'm doing it for the girl named Beth—I used to know a girl named Beth, and it's for her—if you don't treat her right—if you're not good to her, man, I'll come down there and murder you—understand?" He turned and dashed back across the snow crust, and Jack dazedly hurried forward and staked his claim to the big triangular patch of snow that marked the claim next to the famous Jennings.

He had just driven in the last post and written his name on it as Stowe had directed him to do one day when he had been explaining the procedure to the tenderfoot, when there came the sound of loud shouts and many cheers, and several outfits whirled into view around the belt of woods.

There was much surprise and some disappointment when it was discovered that Jack had posted what appeared to be the most desirable claim on the mountain, but the crowd was good natured and immediately scattered, each to stake a claim in the new district.

Jack went slowly back to his dog sled and rode down the mountain in the cold gray dawn of a new day. After he had been to the recorder's office and filed his claim, Jack went back to the cabin he had called home for many months.

Brad Stowe was sitting before the stove reading a two months' old newspaper, and he looked up at his young partner with his old friendly smile as the lad entered.

"All right and hearty, Jack?" he asked.

"Yes, Brad," returned Jack, pulling off his outer garments and reaching for a bunch of letters that bore his name. "Only, you see, I can't understand why you'd throw away a fortune like that claim on Gold Crag when"—

"I'm a sentimental fool, that's why," laughed Stowe, returning to his paper. "Indian Joe brought the mail in, and I suppose those letters are yours. I never get any."

Jack opened Beth's letter and read its closely written pages to the end. When he lifted his eyes they were bright and sparkling with something besides excitement.

He brushed his hand across his eyes and went over to his partner and laid his hand on the broad shoulder.

He waited when he noticed that the big man was reading the paper upside down. Jack knew that Brad Stowe needed that claim.

"Funny thing, Brad," began Jack, "but I've just had a letter from Beth. Say, she will be surprised when she hears that we've struck it rich, won't she?"

"I should think so," returned Stowe, trying to speak carelessly and failing. "Congratulations to you, Jack. Nice girl, eh?"

"Yes; she is, Brad," he went on earnestly. "That claim on Gold Crag is longs to both of us. I've filed it in our joint names—yours and mine—partner."

"Jack, you are square!" shouted Brad heartily as he threw down his paper and gripped his partner's hands.

"There's more to come," went on Jack, with merry eyes. "My Beth writes that her cousin, Beth Terry, has come on from New York for a visit, and she complains that Cousin Beth is eating out her heart for love of a man who quarreled with her and then ran away to the Klondike. And my Beth has ordered me to find that man and bring him home with me to my Beth—and his Beth! Shall I tell you his name, partner?"

Tears stood in Brad Stowe's blue eyes. He brushed them impatiently aside.

"You're not kidding me, Jack?" he stammered.

"Here's her letter—and a letter all ready for the runaway when I find him—and their pictures—here, the letter is for Cousin Beth's sweetheart!" He held it high above his head.

Brad Stowe snatched it from his grasp and retired to a corner to devour it and the picture of Cousin Beth Terry.

"Well?" demanded Jack eagerly.

Brad nodded his head. "I guess I'm Beth Terry's sweetheart still," he grinned, and they clasped hands on the new relationship between them.

Legend of the Wren.

Aristotle, the wise Greek, and Pliny, the Roman naturalist, both mention the old time fables that the wren disputed with the eagle the dominance of the feathered world. The fable goes to the effect that the birds of the air met in a great convention, and a resolution was adopted to choose as king the one that could fly to the greatest height.

The eagle spread his wings and went aloft, sailing higher and higher toward the sun. The members of the convention were ready to proclaim him king when a burst of song was heard above his head. It was the song of triumph from the wren. Perched on the broad shoulders of the eagle when the big bird had spent his strength and finished his flight, the little bird had flown above him and so had won the title of sovereignty.

The eagle, angry at his defeat by so diminutive a contestant, gave the wren a swipe with his wing which sent the little one to earth, since which time it has never been able to fly higher than a thorn bush.

What's in a Name?

She was a very small, very black girl, and it was her first day at school. She gave her name as Frances Willard, and the teacher, wishing to make her feel at home, said:

"And I suppose you try to be as near like her as a little girl can be, don't you?"

"Lak who, ma'am?"

"Like Frances Willard, of course."

The little girl looked puzzled. "Ah, lakn't help lak Frances Willard," she replied stoutly, "cos that's who Ah lak."

so—if he finds any more—there'll be a stampedee for Gold Crag, and you will want to be in it, eh?"

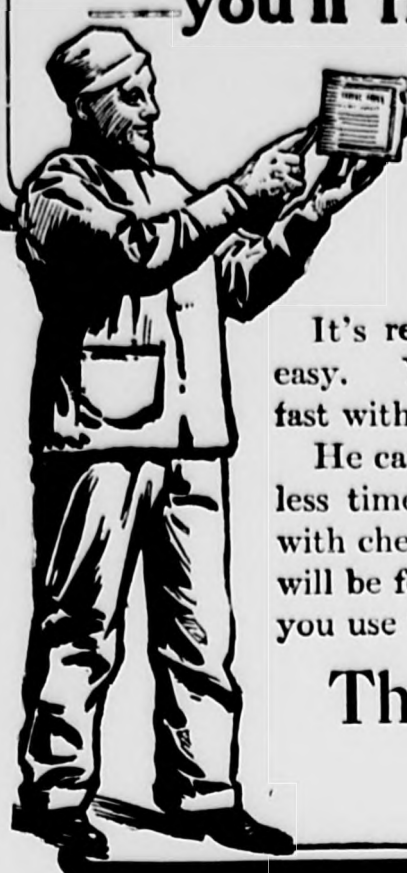

"Sure thing," agreed Jack, encouraged by the experienced miner's outlook. "And you, Brad, you would race for it too?"

"You can bet your life," said the other quietly. "I've had about all of this wild life I can stand. I'm going back to the States—not that there's any one waiting there for me," he ended gloomily. "I'll have to begin over again—alone."

"You were from the east," remarked Jack tentatively.

"Yes, and I'll go back there—to New York. My father will take me into the business with him. I'll settle down there, but I can't want to go home dead. Oh, I'll be it up again here.

Swat the nites in the hen coop. An application of crude creosote is good medicine for them.

In pruning bearing trees, remember the following points:—cut out all dead wood and water sprouts; where two limbs interfere, remove one of them.

Get at the tent caterpillars now on your own tree and even then the man who stops and burns a caterpillar's tent by the wayside is doing a noble deed.

The secret of success in farming is to be ready when the time comes to do the necessary work in the most thorough manner.

Do not grow in the orchard crops, like timothy or grain. They will rob the soil of plant food, and will return nothing to it; also they use up large quantities of moisture.

Geese cannot be profitably hatched and reared artificially, while incubators and brooders have revolutionized the duck business.

The gradual increase in our population and decrease in the beef supply will guarantee an unlimited demand for poultry products for years to come and at lucrative prices.

It costs less to feed a pullet that is getting no meat scrap or skim milk, but it costs more to produce a dozen eggs from her—she lays so many less when deprived of meat food.

A last thorough scraping of the barnyard after hauling out the winter made manure often results in the saving of a lot of old, rich, finely rotted manure valuable for application in the hill with corn.

No fruit is more highly prized during hot weather, is more healthful or more easily grown than the currant. It is a perennial fruiting shrub, and with proper care will continue producing fruit for a quarter of a century or more.

Grapevines are vigorous growers, and must be pruned heavily each year. After planting, cut back each cane to two buds. For the first two years vines can be tied up to a temporary stake, but at beginning of third year, train on a trellis.

Milk, and especially butter production, are the product of nerve force, controlled and increased through brain development. The dairy cow of today, sensitive, easily disturbed, a bundle of nervous energies, demands far different treatment from the general-purpose cow of other days.

Everybody who owns a peach tree should examine it about the body near the ground to see if borers are present. If they are, there will be a gummy exudation. This gum and the soil should be removed and search made for the borer with a knife.

The most important spot on every farm is the garden, which should be planned to contain all those different vegetables enjoyed by the several members of the family; and one needs only to try, to realize how well you can supply a large family on a small area.

Too many plant too deep. Corn seed is very tender and will not germinate well when deeply buried in cold and wet soil. Also, the best corn growers have found by experience that the nearer the surface of the soil young corn plants start to grow, the better they will thrive during the early growing season.

I have observed that many good garden lands have been cast aside as worthless, under the mistaken idea that they are exhausted. That is not true. Poor culture has simply made them tired. Many of such lands are still strong, but they have been so handled that their plant food is locked up.

Concrete is not a satisfactory material as a general rule for the stalls of horse stables, as shod horses are apt to slip and perhaps injure themselves. It is very desirable to provide a material that can be washed down in the same way as concrete and yet provides a surface that is resilient and that will not become slippery.
